Maragon Refuses To Answer Questions; Fraud Action Possible

Probers Are Told He Banked $119,608 But Listed Income Of Half That Sum

By Edward T. Folliard
Post Reporter

Over and over again, for something like 25 times, John Maragon listened to questions fired at him in the Senate's 5-percenter inquiry yesterday, and replied:

"I refuse to answer on the advice of counsel on the ground that my answer might tend to incriminate me."

The Senators wanted to know how it was that he banked a total of $119,608.61 in six years, but told the Treasury his income in those years was much less than half that.

Expense Account Noted

They wanted to ask him, also, about the $9500 expense account he turned into Albert Verley Co. as a $1000-a-month perfume agent, when he was serving at the same time as a State Department employe in Europe at about $466 a month and getting $15-a-day expense money from Uncle Sam.

But Maragon was standing on his constitutional rights and saying nothing.

It was a strange—and, apparently, uncomfortable—role for Maragon. Not a taciturn man by nature, he seemed at times almost bursting with a desire to talk.

Occasionally he did break loose with an answer, as, for example, when he acknowledged he knew Gen. Harry H. Vaughan, White House military aide. But most of the time he bent his ear to Attorney Myron Ehrlich, sitting at his right, and, echoing the attorney's words, voiced the "I refuse to answer" refrain.

When it was all over, a double threat hung over Maragon—the threat of court action on a charge of perjury and on a charge of income tax fraud.

Maragon Retains Poise

Maragon, a husky, partly bald man of 55, with prominent dark eyes and an accent hanging over from his days as a Greek immigrant boy, was far more poised than a lot of witnesses who had preceded him.

A flushed face was all that betrayed any excitement. He took the witness chair after committee investigators had laid down a final installment of evidence against him.

It was brought out that Maragon not only banked $119,608.61 in the past six years, but received checks he never deposited in a bank.

It was brought out, further, that he had reported to the Government an average annual income for the past six years of between $6000 and $7000.

Carmine Bellino, accountant for the Senate Investigations subcommittee, who testified about Maragon's three bank accounts—two here and one in San Antonio, Tex.—said that evidence dealing with his finances had been referred to the Bureau of Internal Revenue. He said he believed the income-

A Maragon Expense Account

Following is the expense account John Maragon sent the Albert Verley Co., during a period when he also was drawing a salary and $15 a day from the State Department for service with mission to observe the Greek elections. Spellings are those of Maragon:

Seven Die In Sinking Of U. S. Sub

By John G. Norris
Post Reporter

Seven lives were lost in a tragic United States Navy submarine disaster and subsequent rescue operations off the northern tip of Norway yesterday.

The USS Cochino, commanded by Lieut. Comdr. Rafael C. Benitez, a 1949 Georgetown University law graduate, exploded, burned and sank in icy Arctic waters, the Navy said.

One member of the Cochino's complement—a civilian technician—was lost, and six submariners aboard a sister ship, the USS Tusk, were swept overboard during daring rescue work amid heavy seas.

In Battery Room

The Navy said the explosion occurred in the battery room of the Cochino, one of the latest type submersibles equipped with snorkel apparatus to enable it to "breathe" air submerged.

According to press dispatches from Hammerfest, Norway, "northernmost town in the world," the submarines were operating some 150 miles off the Norway coast. This would put the scene somewhere along the route employed by Allied convoys during the war in carrying arms to Murmansk, Russia.

The Tusk arrived at Hammerfest at 8:30 a. m. (2.30 EDT) with the survivors aboard. Norwegian press reports said. Included were five injured men, one seriously hurt, the dispatches said.

From Groton, Conn., the Associated Press quoted the office of Rear Admiral James Fife, commander of the Atlantic Fleet Submarine Force, as saying that five men aboard the Cochino were burned but only one required hospitalization.

Mountainous seas swept over the decks of the burning submarine as the Tusk pulled alongside to rescue the crew. Twelve men were swept overboard as the heroic rescuers transferred the survivors to safety. Six of those dashed from the Tusk were lost.

The Navy said that the two submarines—both "guppy" types fitted out with snorkels—were on a training cruise in Arctic waters along with two Fleet type submarines, the USS Toro and Corsair.

Purpose of the cruise was to familiarize the submariners with operations in the cold waters of the Far North. The unstated reason for such training is that a war with Russia would involve Arctic fighting with the Soviet's submarine fleet, said to total more than 250 modern undersea craft.

Scene of the explosion was estimated as several hundred miles from the Soviet's Murmansk naval base.

Submarine experts here believed an electric spark might have ignited highly volatile hydrogen fumes given off by the Cochino's batteries. The vessel's battery room, where the explosion occurred, contained a number of 1000-pound lead sulphate batteries, similar to automobile batteries, though much larger. Each was 4 feet high and about 1½ feet wide.

Comdr. E. T. Shepard, a submarine expert on duty here, "guessed" that the Cochino must have been recharging batteries at the time of the explosion — and therefore probably was on the surface. When batteries are being charged, he said, they give off hy-

Palm Beach Gets Fury Of 'Worst' Hurricane

1 Dead, 15 Injured As Gusts Leave Path of Destruction Along Gold Coast

From Press Dispatches

Palm Beach, Fla., Aug. 26. The most powerful hurricane ever to be recorded in Florida hit 250 miles of the coast tonight with winds up to 155 miles an hour and then roared inland to pound the heart of Florida.

The center of the whirling monster was near Canal Point on Lake Okeechobee, but still hammered that lakeside town and West Palm Beach, 40 miles to the east, with 150-mile-an-hour gusts and 125 miles sustained velocity.

The havoc was immense—impossible to estimate—and the Weather Bureau warned "the worst . . . is still to come," when winds behind the hurricane strike.

Never in recent memory had hurricane winds been so fierce and vicious. Giant pines that withstood the devastation of 1928 and 1947 keeled over before the greater and stronger blow.

Near Okeechobee

The United States Weather Bureau issued the following bulletin:

"The hurricane has been moving along the eastern shore of Lake Okeechobee at 12 to 14 miles per hour since 10 p. m. and is now near the city of Lake Okeechobee.

"It's direction of movement is between northwest and north-northwest. The pressure in the center is somewhat higher but the winds are still of super-hurricane force.

"Vero Beach had 97 miles per hour with gusts to 110 miles per hour at 11:30 p. m. and the winds are probably considerably stronger near the center.

"All precautions for the protection of life and property should be continued in the are of hurricane display and most of northeastern Florida.

Warnings Displayed

"Hurricane warnings are displayed north of Fort Lauderdale to St. Augustine and around Lake Okeechobee. Storm warnings are displayed north of St. Augustine to Charleston and on the west coast of Florida from Fort Myers to Panama City."

The hurricane struck Okeechobee at 140 miles an hour and stripped off the wind register at Belle Glade at this velocity, the Red Cross was informed.

Luther Jones, publisher of the Belle Glade Herald, was quoted as exclaiming as he talked with the Red Cross:

"There goes the WSWN radio tower."

Jones said more than 1000 persons were in storm shelters in the rich garden spot.

Lake Okeechobee is where 1800 persons died in a 1928 catastrophe. Officials looked to a new Govern-

Sawyer Surveys East, Midwest

By Marshall Andrews
Post Reporter

American business looks for an early economic upturn and wants no increased Government spending to hasten it, Commerce Secretary Sawyer reported yesterday.

His report was contained in a 600-word letter to Presidential Assistant John R. Steelman based on a survey of business and labor sentiment in 15 Eastern and Midwestern cities. Steelman had asked for the survey to assist in carrying out President Truman's program to concentrate Federal spending in areas of greatest unemployment.

"There was no general view in any area," Sawyer wrote, "that the time had come for major pump-priming or special public works activity by the Federal Government."

Sawyer proffered no opinions of his own, simply passing on those of businessmen and labor representatives in the cities surveyed. From these he received many suggestions, among which were:

1. Repeal or reduction of wartime excise taxes.
2. Tax credits to enable business to absorb more quickly costs of plant expansion.
3. Lower taxes based on reduction of Federal spending.
4. Easier loans for small business.
5. Higher unemployment compensation payments for longer periods of idleness.
6. More Government purchases in critical areas.
7. Public construction projects planned and ready to be put into operation if needed.

Sawyer reported to Steelman that most businessmen questioned believed economic setbacks this year were temporary postwar adjustments and foresaw an upturn in the near future.

Prospects of a fourth-round wage increase, Sawyer said, were a matter of major concern to businessmen. They agreed that some businesses could afford it, he said, but felt that most employes would gain more by lower prices.

His report was based on visits to Boston, Detroit, Lansing, Mich.; Cleveland, Cincinnati, Memphis, Birmingham, Savannah, Buffalo, Louisville and Frankfort, Ky.; Atlanta, Minneapolis, St. Paul and St. Louis.

6210 July Starts

Area Record Set in Home Construction

Greater Washington chalked up its biggest homebuilding month on record in July, figures released yesterday by the Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics showed.

The total of 6210 new permanent dwelling units started during the month was almost double the June figure and more than three and a half times the number begun in July, 1948. Of the new units, more than 5300, or 86 per cent, are of the rental type—two-or-more-family structures.

The record month raised the number of new dwelling units started the first seven months of 1949 to a grand total of 16,120. This is 20 per cent above 1948's figure at the same stage and 54 per cent above 1947—both outstanding homebuilding years here.

The number of single-family houses showed an actual drop this year, but apartment-house building reached new highs. While the 4590 one-family units started this year are 21 per cent less than in 1948, the 11,530 rental units begun mark a 52 per cent upshoot.

Prince Georges and Fairfax Counties led the area in number of new dwelling units authorized during the first seven months of this year — each accounting for about a fourth of the total. Next in line were the District, Montgomery County, Arlington County and Alexandria.

Rubber Workers Strike At Big Akron Plant

Akron, Ohio, (Saturday), Aug. 27—(AP)—Workers in B. F. Goodrich Co.'s biggest plant went on strike at 12:01 a. m. (EDT) today. The Akron plant employs about 11,000 CIO-United Rubber Workers.

Goodrich has around 17,000 workers in seven plants throughout the country.

Soviet Linked To Yugoslav Refinery Blast

Belgrade, Aug. 26 (U.P.).—Reports tonight said that Yugoslavia's largest oil refinery had been blown up Wednesday night at the Adriatic port of Rjeka (Fiume) and that Cominform sagotage was suspected.

Fiume is 40 miles southeast of Trieste city.

It was also reported that about 10 days ago, four planes of unknown nationality flew into Yugoslavia from the direction of Albania and bombed the Yugoslav Air Force field near Pristina, only 22 air miles from the Albanian border.

These reports said one Yugoslav military plane was destroyed.

The report on the refinery explosion said uncontrolled fires still raged in the "United Yugoslavia" plant which processes all the crude oil Yugoslavia imports. The plant was the only modern Yugoslav refinery.

Big Air Power Backers Dealt Senate Defeat

Big air power backers yesterday lost a Senate fight to restore 577 millions in funds for new warplane orders and continue building toward a 70-group Air Force.

By a vote of 49 to 9, the Senate backed President Truman and its own Appropriations Committee, which proposed cutting back the Air Force to 48 groups.

The House had added 800 million dollars to the current year's military budget to provide an active Air Force of 59 groups and additional aircraft orders to continue building toward the 70-group goal.

Terming this "a fundamental blow at our national defense," a bloc of air-minded Senators tried to boost funds for new planes from $1,415,000,000 to $1,922,775,000—the amount proposed by the House.

'Last Encampment'

Civil War Veterans Rebel Over Plans to Disband GAR

Indianapolis, Aug. 26 (U.P.).—A spirited rebellion among six Civil War veterans over plans to disband the Grand Army of the Republic broke out today on the eve of the eighty-third encampment.

At least two of the six, who will travel more than 12,000 miles to attend the "last" campfire here next week, threatened to fight it out when they arrive.

A third who aspires to be national commander in chief "before I die" was expected to join the two. A fourth among the 16 surviving Union Army veterans pleaded to spare the GAR's life "as long as any of us are around." But he was too frail to attend the encampment.

James A. Hard, 108, Rochester, N. Y., and Robert Barrett, 102, Princeton, Ky., called for continuance of the GAR. Barrett was not present at Grand Rapids, Mich., last year when six old soldiers decided to hold only one more encampment.

Hard and Barrett plan to be on hand when the "last encampment" opens, along with Charles Chappel, 102, Long Beach, Calif., who wants to be commander in chief, a post now held by Theodore A. Penland, 100, Portland, Oreg.

In Bedford, Mass., 101-year-old James M. Lurvey said he was too old to make the trip but urged his colleagues to "keep the GAR going." Lurvey rejected a proposal by Hard that a final encampment be held jointly with Confederate veterans.

"Thunderation," he said, "Let's not join the Rebels."

"They can't have another encammment," said Miss Cora Gillis, secretary of the GAR. "They voted positively not to meet again. They can't change their minds."

The issue was expected to be thrashed out next Wednesday.

(From Press Dispatches)

Britain was told last night that it should not look for a drastic cure-all for its dollar ills in the forthcoming United States-British-Canadian talks here.

A joint "background memorandum" by the State and Treasury Departments declared the United States "expects the problem (Britain's lack of dollars) to be considered within the existing framework of United States foreign policy." This policy is principally aid through the Marshall Plan.

The United States is expected to take the position the only permanent cure for Britain's troubles is a long-pull effort to increase British productivity, cut costs and increase trade and selling enterprise.

In London yesterday, Paul G. Hoffman, Economic Cooperation Administrator, declares he believes Britain must produce and

Detroit Police Will Summon Two Reuthers for Lie Tests

Detroit, Aug. 26 (U.P.).—Police Commissioner Harry S. Toy said today he will summon CIO United Auto Workers officials Walter and Victor Reuther for lie tests about the shotgun attempts on their lives.

Angered by a statement made in New York by Victor Reuther that Detroit police "brushed off" an important witness in his near-fatal shooting, Toy denied charges of police laxity.

"We have the idea that the Reuthers haven't been frank with us and may be holding something back," the commissioner said. "I am going to ask the Reuthers, other union officials and neighbors to come down and take lie detector tests."

Victor Reuther said in New York that a neighbor had seen two men sitting in a parked automobile outside the Reuther home for three consecutive days before he was shot. He said police talked with the neighbor briefly after the shooting but never asked him to examine

Area Farmers Ask Virginia to Freeze Milk Price Rise

Washington area dairy farmers yesterday asked the Virginia Milk Commission to adopt as a minimum in nearby Virginia the increased price to dairies set by farmers August 1.

After an afternoon-long hearing at Alexandria's George Mason Hotel, the commission took the request under advisement.

If the request is granted, it would not mean an increase in consumer prices. A 1-cent increase was made August 1 when distributors' costs went up. Ratification by the commission would make the position of farmers more secure. Their price could not then drop below the present $6.00 per hundredweight without approval of the commission.

The commission's jurisdiction includes only Virginia. But prices fixed by the commission in the Alexandria-Arlington area have always controlled prices throughout the Washington area.

Bradley Appeals For Full Arms Aid

As Worth Aides

Others Still Sought in B-36 Probe

By Murrey Marder
Post Reporter

Investigators for the House Armed Services Committee yesterday continued efforts to determine whether other naval officials were involved in the discredited anonymous document charging wrongdoing in the Air Force's B-36 program.

They privately questioned Cedric R. Worth, suspended special assistant to Navy Undersecretary Dan Kimball, who has admitted writing the document and conceded its charges were false. They also talked to Undersecretary Kimball.

As members of the committee scattered for their homes during the House recess, the staff probers and a Navy investigating group of three admirals prepared to find out who else may have been privy to Worth's plans.

Two Officers to Be Called

Two Naval officers mentioned during the hearings are certain to be called by both groups. They are Comdr. Thomas D. Davies, pilot of the "Truculent Turtle," who, Worth said, gave him some of his information, and Lieut. Samuel P. Ingraham, described as an intermediary in giving the document to a Congressman. Both are now on duty with the Office of Naval Operations here.

Committee Chairman Carl Vinson (D., Ga.) yesterday commended the Navy for appointing the court of inquiry to investigate who may have been involved with Worth. Earlier, he said Naval Intelligence "fell down" on an earlier probe into the matter assigned it by Kimball.

The Navy board—which serves as an informal investigating group rather than a formal court and is expected to question witnesses in private—consists of Admiral Thomas C. Kinkaid, Vice Admiral Donald Beary and Rear Admiral Glenn Davis. It convenes here Monday.

Hearings Resume October 5

The House Armed Services Committee will resume its hearings October 5. It will attempt to determine definitely who may have worked with Worth on the document, and then go on to other matters listed on the B-36 probe agenda.

These involve a review of the Nation's air power policies, including a determination of whether undue emphasis is placed on Air Force strategic bombing to the detriment of other forces.

Some committee members want to follow Air Force advice and either drop this part of the inquiry or hold all sessions behind closed doors. Others agree with Navy chiefs that, while the guilty should be punished for the Worth smear document, the Navy should be given its day in open court.

During the hearings of the past few weeks, top Air Force officials have had a forum to urge their views of strategic bombing, say the latter committeemen. Several top Navy chiefs, including Admiral Arthur W. Radford, commander in chief of the Pacific Fleet, are known to be prepared to give their views on how our defense forces should be organized.

Knowland said he will withdraw an amendment to provide 175 million dollars in the program for assistance to the "government of China," and instead will seek to have "non-Communist China" named as a possible recipient of aid, at the discretion of the President.

He said his new amendment might be acceptable to the Administration, which is firmly opposed to any provision that would direct new aid to the Chinese Nationalist government, which it has written off as a failure.

Administration leaders said they will have to study the language of Knowland's amendment, to determine what its effect would be.

Knowland's amendment would add $193,000,000 to the bill, but he said the President would not be compelled to spend any of it. This follows the original bill, in leaving actual expenditures to the President's discretion.

The present bill allows $211,370,000 in arms aid for Greece and Turkey, and a lump sum of $27,640,000—under a separate title—for Iran, Korea and the Philippines.

Knowland would take Iran, and 10 million dollars out of the $27,640,000 fund, and place it in the Greece-Turkey portion of the bill.

Under a separate title he would authorize $210,640,000 for "military assistance to non-Communist China, Korea (and) the Philippines," and of the total sum 18 million dollars would be set aside for use in "any other nation in the Far East."

Secretary of State Acheson has previously said he would not be opposed to adding a comparatively small sum to the bill to be used "generally in the Far East," if Congress desires.

Knowland pointed out that his current amendment does not earmark any specific sum for China.

He said, however, that if any aid is given to China, he does not see how it can be channeled else where than to Nationalist China, as long as this Nation recognizes that government.

Knowland said he was willing to compromise on another point.

While his original amendment called for a guarantee that China could not be given weapons at one price while other nations paid a lesser price for "surplus" weapons, he now proposes that excess weapons shall be distributed equitably "to the extent practicable."

Senator Connally (D., Tex.), chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, said the combined Senate committee will vote on Monday on the European aid figure, and then take up the China issue.

He and Senator Tydings (D., Md.), chairman of the Armed Services Committee, said General Bradley assured the Senators that the aid plan does not contemplate building new arms plants in Europe.

Of the 160 million dollars that Vandenberg and Dulles would take out of the bill, 155 million dollars is earmarked to supply raw materials and for retooling existing European plants. This investment, it is estimated, will produce weapons worth 750 million dollars and help start Europe back on a self-sustaining arms production basis.

4 Air Force Headquarters To Be Moved

By The Associated Press

The headquarters of four air forces in this country will be moved because of Defense Secretary Johnson's economy program announced this week.

Headquarters of the First Air Force will be transferred from Slocum Air Force Base at New Rochelle, N. Y., to Mitchel Air Force Base at Hempstead, N. Y.

Headquarters for the Tenth Air Force will be transferred from Benjamin Harrison Air Force Base to a location not yet identified.

Headquarters of the Fourteenth Air Force base will be transferred from Orlando Air Force Base at Orlando, Fla., to Robins Air Force Base, Macon, Ga.

Headquarters of the Fifteenth Air Force will be transferred from Ent Air Force Base at Colorado Springs to March Air Force Base at Riverside, Calif.

Bradley Verbally Spanks Opponents of Unification

By the United Press

Gen. Omar N. Bradley last night verbally spanked unnamed military officers for fighting unification and boasting "with narrow pride" of individual accomplishments by the Army, Navy or Air Force.

The new chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff said in a Nationwide Columbia Broadcasting System program that these "short-sighted partisans" would see the dangers of disunity if they studied the past wars more carefully.

He pledged to do his utmost in his new job in helping build a unified military establishment that "shall be first for peace, then for defense, and finally, if war is thrust upon us, for victory."

Marx Leva, assistant to Defense Secretary Louis Johnson who is in line for one of the new Defense secretary posts, said the Defense establishment had made "substantial progress" toward unity during the past two years.

He cited the Berlin airlift as an outstanding example of unification in action. It was operated by Military Air Transport Service, consolidation of the Air Force's Air Transport Command and the Naval Air Transport Service.

U. S. Is Target Of Attacks at 'Peace' Talks

Moscow, Aug. 26 (U.P.).—A Chinese labor leader, a mitred prelate of the Russian Church, a bail-jumping German Communist and an Italian leftist joined in praising Russia and denouncing the United States today at Moscow's "Conference of Peace Partisans."

Min Nan-yung was the Chinese. He said the Chinese Communists soon would form a "coalition" government for all of China. Communist victory, he said, would have been impossible without Russia's "moral" support.

Metropolitan Nikolai Krutitsky, president of the Holy Synod and second ranking leader of the Russian Church, was the prelate. He said the United States was "a sinner of a resuscitated Babylon."

The German was Gerhard Fisler, who escaped trial for perjury in the United States by jumping bail. Eisler said the leaders of the new western German government were "a gang of full-grown German imperialists."

5 Nations Seek To Save 12,000 in Burma War Area

Rangoon, Burma, Aug. 26 (A.P.).—Embassy officials of five nations set out today on a flying diplomatic mission intended to rescue 12,000 foreigners trapped by civil war battles in rebel-held Taunggyi.

Eighteen Armericans involved were safe at last reports.

The Burmese government sponsored the diplomats' trip to call on the rebels in hopes of getting foreigners out of the way of an offensive and air-bombing planned by the army to retake the town.

The Karen tribesmen, fighting to establish a state of their own, captured Taunggyi, August 31.

Embassies said foreign nationals caught in Taunggyi, about 100 miles southeast of Mandalay, included:

Indians and Anglo-Indians holding British passports, 6000; Pakistanis, 3500; Chinese, 2500; Americans, 18; Britons, 16.

The Americans were identified as educators and Baptist missionaries.

Americans in Rangoon said the Karens had neither molested nor intimidated United States citizens in Taunggyi. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brandt of Portland, Oreg., were permitted to leave August 18. The Brandts are in Buma as missioners under the Fullbright educational program.

Among those reported left in Taunggyi are two other Fullbright educators and their wives—Mr. and Mrs. Otto K. Hunderwadel, Gainesville, Fla., and Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Dashiell, Dallas, Oreg.

The American Embassy 10 days ago said the list of United States citizens in Taunggyi included American Baptist missionaries, among them: Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Zimmer of Mason, Mich.; Miss Laura E. Johnson, Meade, Nebr.; Mrs. E. Heptonstall, who was born in Toungoo, Burma, and W. D. Hackett, born in Rangoon.

Rabbi Says U. S. Is Too Busy to Bar Anti-Semitism

Paris, Aug. 26 (U.P.).—A Canadian Jewish leader charged today that United States occupation authorities are too busy rebuilding Germany to pay much attention to "rising antisemitism" there.

Rabbi Abraham Feinberg of Toronto said he believes every Jew should leave Germany, but declared discrimination is making it difficult for some to do so.

Feinberg said Canada refuses to admit any Jewish displaced persons, while Britain, Brazil and Chile bar some Jewish professional men.

He said Israel could not provide a home for all of Germany's Jewish displaced persons.

Legion Leader Says Politics Are Harmful to U. S. Security

Philadelphia, Aug. 26 (A.P.).—The American Legion's national commander demanded today "an end to politics interfering with our national security."

Perry Brown, of Beaumont, Tex., announced he will urge the Legion to draft a resolution backing "an armed force that will guarantee security that we can believe in, and that we can afford."

Brown will take his plea before the Legion's security committee, meeting in advance of the group's 31st national convention.

He wants a specified percentage of the Federal Government's income to go to the armed forces. He suggested the figure should be 25 per cent.

Brown would give the Joint Chiefs of Staff the responsibility for allocating the 25 per cent to the armed forces. This, he said, would end public squabbling among the various services.

"Congress and other civilians wouldn't have any say," Brown declared. "The only people who really know how to fight wars or guarantee security are the people whose business it is to know—the military leaders."

Brown said about half the United States income this fiscal year is allocated to the armed forces. He called that a "tremendous waste."

"With 10 billion dollars used in the right places," Brown said, "we would achieve a much stronger and more adequate military machine."

Under the plan, towns and cities would pool their resources in a drive to bring in new industry, jobs and housing "without running to Washington" for funds and other help.

Nearly 1000 proposals were presented to committees today.

Associated Press WIREPHOTO

Among the major recommendations were:

1. That the United States "go all out" in financial aid for China and other sections of the Orient threatened by the Communists.

2. That the Government build more planes and train more pilots because "present air power is not sufficient."

3. That some control of atomic energy be transferred from civilian to military agencies.

Candidates for the post of national commander were busily campaigning for votes. Four are veterans of World War II.

The atomic proposal was advanced by Senator Hickenlooper (R., Iowa), ranking Republican member of the Joint Congressional Committee on Atomic Energy.

The Senator said he told the Legion committee that "security within the Atomic Energy Commission has softened to the point where the safety of the entire atomic energy program is threatened.

"At the present time, the military does not have responsibility for the safekeeping of atomic weapons, which make up 90 per cent of the atomic energy program."

Clapp to Head U. N. Survey On Economics in Middle East

Lake Success, Aug. 26 (A.P.).—Gordon Clapp, chairman of the board of TVA, was named by U. N. Secretary-General Trygve Lie today to head the economic survey of the Middle East.

Clapp

The survey was proposed by the United States in the Palestine Conciliation Commission at Lausanne, Switzerland, and has the support of both Israel and the Arab governments.

Clapp was nominated by the United States Government, Lie said. He has been connected with TVA since 1939 and became chairman of the board when David Lilienthal resigned to become head of the Atomic Energy Commission.

(In Washington, President Truman pledged full support of the United States to the commission and will resume his duties with the TVA as soon as the mission has completed its work.)

Clapp recently figured in the headlines when the Army Department in Washington turned down a request of the Berlin military government that Clapp be asked to come to Germany on a temporary assignment. The Army later apologized.

Lie said Clapp probably would leave for the Middle East next week.

The survey is to determine ability of Middle Eastern countries to provide homes for 500,000 to 900,000 Arab refugees who fled Palestine.

259 Reported Killed In Somaliland Fighting

Aden, Aug. 26 (U.P.).—Reports reaching here today said that 259 persons were killed and more than 500 injured when rival tribes of French Somaliland fought in the streets and mosques over local election results yesterday.

(The French Foreign Office confirmed the clash, but a spokesman in Paris said casualties were 38 dead and 154 injured.)

Greeks Take 3 Heights

Argos, Greece, Aug. 26 (A.P.).—Greek army commandos captured three important heights in the Grammos offensive today. The heights lie along the eastern edges of the Communist-led guerillas' last important stronghold in the mountains on the Albania border.

Briton Assails U.S. 'Stupidity' On Social Aids

Strasbourg, France, Aug. 26 (A.P.).—British Labor Socialist Will Nally told the Assembly of the Council of Europe today that "a small number of stupid but powerful Americans" are not going to strain the bases of British social security."

He was speaking in the Assembly's debate on European social conditions.

"Social security," Nally said, "is an essential weapon in the war against totalitarianism."

Nally also ripped into British opponents of the welfare state.

He said "it is always the man in the United Kingdom who has (by private income) social security who says social security saps the vitality of others."

Nally said a "few frank words should be addressed to our American friends." Then he said:

"We pay tribute to United States aid . . . We follow with deep interest the battle being waged by President Truman and his Administration to establish and develop social security . . . But it is necessary to tell a tiny minority of stupid Americans that whatever else may be subject to negotiation, social security is not . . .

"We are not going to have the bases of social security in Britain strained by the threats or blusters of a small number of stupid but powerful people in America."

U. N. Opposes Major Cut in Aid From U. S.

Lake Success, Aug. 26 (A.P.).—The United States should be granted only a token cut in her contributions to the United Nations, the General Assembly's committee on contributions recommended today.

Despite United States contentions it is paying more than its share the committee said world conditions prevent any major revision in assessments.

The committee recommended that all assessments continue unchanged for another year with the exception of the United States and Sweden.

The United States assessment would be reduced from 39.89 per cent to 39.79 per cent and Sweden's share would be cut from 2 per cent to 1.98 per cent.

The other powers would continue to contribute as follows: Britain, 11.37 per cent; Russia, 6.34 per cent; France, 6 per cent and China 6 per cent. The proposed U. N. budget for 1950 totals $44,314,398.

Reds Push Closer to Canton; Nationalist Forces Regroup

Hongkong, Aug. 26 (U.P.).—Nationalist China prepared today to regroup its reeling forces as a two-pronged Communist attack thrust nearer to the "refugee capital" at Canton.

A new south China command, headed by Gen. Yu Han-mou, was appointed to organize the defenses of Kwangtung Province.

Communist forces, massed about 100 miles northeast of Canton, were believed ready to launch a smashing attack into northern Kwangtung.

Waiter Confesses O'Donnell's Holdup

BERNARD F. TOOMEY
Police say he admits it . . . .

Bernard F. Toomey, 38, who is charged with a $174 holdup at O'Donnell's Restaurant early Thursday, was held in $5000 bond yesterday for action of the grand jury.

According to police, Toomey, an unemployed waiter living at 511 5th st. nw., admitted the holdup but denied he was armed.

At yesterday's preliminary hearing before United States Commissioner Cyril S. Lawrence, Miss Inez Fender, cashier at O'Donnell's, which is at 1221 E st. nw., testified that about 12:30 a.m. Thursday Toomey approached her desk and ordered her to hand over the money. When she hesitated she said he warned her, "You'd better give me the money. And you'd better not speak to any one if you don't want to get hurt."

Miss Fender said she was frightened because the man held one hand in his trousers pocket in a threatening manner, as though armed. She said she handed him the money and he walked out the door.

Toomey did not testify. "I'm perfectly content with the lady's version," he said.

Detective Sergt. Murray Kutner of the robbery squad testified that Toomey had been arrested in his room at noon yesterday, turned over to police $114 and told 'hem he got only $150 in the robbery and had spent the difference on whisky, food and cigarettes.

Detectives Commended In Rape, Robbery Jobs

Maj. Robert J. Barrett, superintendent of police, commended detectives yesterday for speedy solution of a rape and a robbery.

He commended Detective Sergt. James F. Sartain and Precinct Detectives James G. Bryant and Robert D. Weaver of the sex squad for clearing the rape and robbery of a woman, wife of a Marine, near 13th st. and Pennsylvania ave. se., last Saturday night.

Their investigation led to the arrest of William Leach, jr., 15, who on Thursday in Juvenile Court was committed to the National Training School for Boys until he reaches the age of 21.

Barrett also commended Lieut. Otto P. Fuss and Detective Sergts. Murray Kutner and Herbert C. Young of the robbery squad, who yesterday arrested Bernard F. Toomey, 38, as the man who held up O'Donnell's Restaurant, 1221 E st. nw., early Thursday.

Winds Lash Florida Coast

ment-built dike to ward off a repetition of death and destruction.

The hurricane blotted out communications. Fragmentary reports showed at least one dead and 15 injured so far. Scores of small boats sank and were beached or splintered.

Miami Escapes the Worst

The hardest hit areas in the first phase of the storm were Fort Lauderdale, swank Palm Beach, the adjoining city of West Palm Beach, and Lake Worth. All the communities are clustered about 65 miles north of Miami, which escaped the worst part of the blow.

Two women were reported injured in West Palm Beach. Mrs. Chester Martin was cut by flying glass and Mrs. Ella Mae Womac suffered a broken arm and a possible broken leg in an automobile accident.

The roof of the Palm Theater blew off. Radio station WJNO said its tower at Riviera was blown down.

In WJNO's concrete building at West Palm Beach, 120-mile winds outside rocked the structure so that water sloshed out of lavatory bowls and fluorescent light bulbs quivered.

Schools Unroofed

A 9 p. m. advisory said wind instruments recording the blasts at West Palm Beach had blown away at 110 miles an hour, but the force of the thundering winds was unofficially estimated by the Palm Beach Weather Station at 155 miles an hour.

Many homes and at least two schools were reported unroofed at West Palm Beach. About 100 refugees in Conniston and Westgate Schools were removed to other shelters during the storm.

A youth drowned at Miami when he attempted to save his sailboat. He was Andrew Jonkman, 20, formerly of Paterson, N. J.

Power was off in the Palm Beach area and few telephones were working.

The Palm Beach County Courthouse was damaged. Shattered glass, fallen trees and tangled wires littered streets in the Palm Beaches and in communities along the coast south to Fort Lauderdale.

Pompano Beach reported one house blown down and 10 others unroofed. Windows were smashed in downtown Palm Beach and Fort Lauderdale stores, and many small boats tore loose from their moorings in the storm area, smashing against bridges and docks.

Lush estates of millionaires and frame and stucco homes of the humble alike felt the power of the whining, whirling wind.

Estates of Col. Robert R. McCormick, Joseph E. Davies, the Barclay Warburtons, Philip Iglehart, the Harold S. Vanderbilts and scores of others were in the path of the storm.

Miami was on the fringe of the hurricane and winds reached 54 miles an hour. Rainfall totaled 1.53 inches in downtown Miami as the storm passed.

By 9 p. m. (EST) the Red Cross began letting people out of shelters in the Miami area. Pan American Airways announced it was resuming flights into and out of the city.

Radio Tower Collapses

In West Palm Beach the roof of a school house sheltering 100 persons, mostly women and children, was ripped off by 120-mile-an-hour blast.

At Lake Worth, the gymnasium of Westgate School caved in. About 120 persons being sheltered in another part of the school were moved hastily to the County Courthouse.

A 196-foot radio tower collapsed into Lake Worth and a Florida East Coast Railway crossing tower was blown over across the tracks. Two boats sank in the lake.

The Florida, Louisiana and Mississippi Gulf Coasts were alerted to prepare for the big blow should in continue its present course across the peninsula.

Preparations to meet the fury of the storm were being rushed on the Florida West Coast from Fort Myers to Tampa. At Saratoga, Red Cross disaster units were placed on an alert. In Tampa, all women and children and seriously ill patients in MacDill Air Force Base Hospital were moved to the Tampa Terrace Hotel.

Sixty B-29 bombers were flown out of MacDill Field, Tampa.

New Hurricane Threatens

The 600,000 residents of New Orleans, Coast Guard disaster units and key National Guard personnel were alerted today as the Weather Bureau warned the hurricane may strike "very close" to New Orleans Sunday.

Court Affirms Citizenship Return To Jap Americans

San Francisco, Aug. 26 (AP).—The United States Circuit Court of Appeals today affirmed restoration of citizenship to three Japanese-Americans who renounced it during wartime.

At the same time the court wrote a vigorous criticism of Maj. Gen. John L. De Witt's exclusion, early in the war, of all persons of Japanese blood from the west coastal fringe.

It spoke of "their incarceration for over 2½ years (in the Tule Lake center and other camps) under conditions in major respects as degrading as those in a penitentiary and in important degrees worse than in any Federal penitentiary."

It cited "the Nazi-like doctrine of inherited racial enmity stated by the commanding general (De Witt) ordering the deportation as the major reason for that action."

The Federal District Court in Los Angeles earlier had restored citizenship to three women—Miye Mae Murakami, Tsuako Sumi and Mutsu Shimizu, all born in this country.

Silver Spring Woman Dies In Air Crash

MRS. JOHN CHATHAM

Oxford, N. C., Aug. 26 (AP).—The former Peggy Jane Leith, 22, of Silver Spring, Md., was the victim of a plane crash here last night.

Three persons, including Mrs. Peggy Jane Leith Chatham, were killed. The other victims were: Robert B. Bushey of Winston-Salem, the pilot, and Mrs. Letha Cortrell Cole of Durham.

Mrs. Cole's husband, N. Dallas Cole, said his wife and Mrs. Chatham, both nurses, were returning from New York, where they had accompanied a patient from Watts Hospital in Durham.

The crash occurred about 9:15 p. m. The pilot and Mrs. Cole were killed outright. Mrs. Chatham died at the Granville Hospital, here, at 6:20 a. m. today.

State Highway Patrolman O. J. Mitchell quoted eye-witnesses as saying the pilot dropped two flares and then attempted to land. The plane struck a tree, sheared off a wing and crashed in a corn field.

The plane was a five-passenger Cessna converted to ambulance use and owned by Piedmont Aviation.

Fatal Crash on First Job as Flying Nurse

According to Mrs. Chatham's twin brother, James Leith, of 4028 7th st. ne., it was her first job as a flying nurse. She entered nurse's training just after graduation from Coolige High School in 1944 and has been in private practice in Durham since 1946, when she completed training.

She was the daughter of the late T. Hunton Leith, vice president and cashier of the Security Savings & Commerical Bank of Washington, who died in 1941.

Her mother, Mrs. Myrna Leith, a clerk at the Bureau of Federal Supply, flew down to Oxford early yesterday morning, unaware that Mrs. Chatham had died. Mrs. Leith lives at 500 Easley st., Silver Spring.

Mrs. Chatham was married in December, 1946. Her husband, who is from Durham, is a business administration student at the University of North Carolina. An older brother, T. Hunton Leith, jr., of 1106 S. Thomas st., Arlington, also survives.

EARNINGS: Baltimore & Ohio Railroad reported July net income of $56,007, a sharp decrease from the $2,712,513 in the same 1948 month. The three-day work week in the coal trade, lower industrial activity and the fact that many industries closed for July vacation periods contributed to the slump. For the first seven months, B. & O. showed net of $6,902,364, against $11,892,646 in same period last year. Other earnings statements:

Florida In D. C.

Approval by the Securities and Exchange Commission of the proposed sale by North American Co. of its 46 per cent holding of Capital Transit Co. to a group of Florida investors clears away the next-to-last obstacle to the transaction. The last hurdle is the Interstate Commerce Commission which must also approve the Florida group as purchaser. This decision is expected within the next few days.

The SEC, it must be said, had little choice in its decision. As long ago as April, 1942, the commission ordered North American, a public utilities holding company, to divest itself of its block of stock in Capital Transit. North American has made a sincere effort to do so, but has received only one bid, that of the Wolfson brothers and their associates. Under the circumstances the SEC couldn't very well withhold its approval—and there was no reason why it should.

Nor do we see any reason why the ICC should or could refuse to approve the deal from the other direction. The examiner's recommendation that the Florida group be disapproved as purchasers had emotional merit, perhaps, but little logic. His negative finding was based on the arguments that absentee ownership of a controlling interest by persons not conversant with transportation operations would work to the disadvantage of the local public.

If this were a sound argument, then North American should never have been allowed to buy a share of Capital Transit in the first place. It, too, is an absentee owner and not a transportation expert. Its interest, like that of the Florida men, was in a secure and profitable investment—and this presupposes management and operation that will not wreck the worth of the company.

But the real crux of the matter is that even if 100 per cent of Capital Transit's stock were owned in Tibet by people who had never seen a bus or streetcar, actual control would still be in local hands. For CTC as a public carrier is under the constant supervision of the District Public Utilities Commission. And the statute under which it is chartered requires that 60 per cent, 9 out of 15 members, of the board of directors must be bona fide residents of the District of Columbia.

Palestine Shift

Israeli and Arab representatives at Lausanne have agreed with the U. N. Palestine Conciliation Commission to the dispatch of a commission to the Middle East which will survey possibilities of starting one or more schemes of economic development. This may seem like an adroit way of saying that peace-making is hopeless. Peace-making, however, is not hopeless, it is premature. Aside from the particular difficulties besetting the path of the peace-maker over Palestine, history shows that peace does not follow an armistice automatically. Hostilities with Japan, for instance, ended in 1945, yet the prospect of a peace treaty is still remote.

There can be no understanding of the problem posed by peace-making over Palestine without the realization that the conflict in Palestine was a full-sized war. This may induce a little more charity in the prevailing view of Israel as hard-hearted over the Arab refugees. To be sure, Israel has an obligation in respect of the refugees, but she would be courting a fifth column problem if she opened her doors to the refugees en masse while peace is still unachievable. Moreover, the Arab nations which precipitated the war also have an obligation to the refugees. They incited the Arabs in Palestine and they encouraged the scoundrelly Mufti—the man whose representative at Lake Success was taken so seriously, even though the Mufti himself could scarcely raise more than a corporal's guard in behalf of his pretensions.

The new proposal seems to have been American in origin. The American representative, Mr. Paul Porter, appears quickly to have grasped the psychological obstacles in the quest for peace at Lausanne. Israel is one, the Arabs are half a dozen, all with diverse aims. Nor are the Arabs, with populations which still have to learn and digest the actual facts about the war in Palestine, at all anxious to sign any document which will enshrine those facts and then close the book. Their countries are run on the old Oriental principle of "nonaction," whereas Israel is anxious to have peace in order to pursue reconstruction. It is a conflict between past and present on the one hand and the future on the other, and a real fear of Israeli dynamism released from the restraints of war also disturbs the Arabs.

Thus the reason for the new tack is a pretty persuasive one. Here is an opportunity for engaging right away in a sort of pilot plant of Point IV, say, on the Litany River dividing Israel from Lebanon. More than one bird would be killed by this device. It would provide a diversion, and, if properly handled, could employ a number of the dispossessed Arabs, and establish conditions of resettlement. The refugee problem is, indeed, urgent. Soon, if something isn't done, the refugees may be unemployable, fit for nothing except a position on the receiving line of a soup kitchen, if not of Communist propaganda. Thus the proposed diversion may be fruitful, and it may be possible after showing the peoples of the Middle East a way to cooperate functionally to back them into peace.

Pocket Picking

It is not easy to define John Maragon's occupation. It appears from his testimony yesterday before the Senate subcommittee investigating the activities of 5-percenters—or, rather, from his persistent refusal to testify on the ground that to do so might tend to incriminate him—that he has busied himself in recent years as a sort of "fixer," running certain errands and expediting certain arrangements for businessmen which he does not now wish to expose to public scrutiny. Mr. Maragon's "fixing" activities assume importance principally because they were apparently made possible, and indeed greatly facilitated, by a member of the White House staff, Maj. Gen. Harry H. Vaughan, the President's ubiquitous military aide.

General Vaughan secured a passport for Mr. Maragon to go abroad by representing the President as "personally interested" in his trip. He helped Mr. Maragon's employer, David Bennett, to go overseas, too. He arranged a job for Mr. Maragon with the American Mission to observe the Greek elections in 1946. According to Henry F. Grady, the head of the mission, Maragon succeeded in "making himself a nuisance." He succeeded also, apparently, in doing some business for his private employer, Mr. Bennett the perfumer, who continued to pay him a salary while he was on the Government payroll. When he returned to the United States, Mr. Maragon seems to have gone on in behalf of various clients, doing a little "fixing" here, a little expediting there, nothing grandiose, just managing, as another witness before the committee put it, to "make a couple of bucks" through the aura of influence imparted by his side-door association with the White House.

One can scarcely help being appalled, in a certain sense, by the peanut pattern of this "fixing." In the Teapot Dome days, there were real pirates operating around the White House. Albert Fall and Harry Daugherty weren't interested in making a couple of bucks; they were interested in millions. And it can be said in their behalf at least that they knew they were engaged in piracy. The current crop seem to be engaged in mere pocket picking, sordid, small-time stuff. What makes their conduct so appalling is that they do not even seem aware that there is anything wrong with it. The "fix" is just a service to a friend, the "couple of bucks" is just a normal rake-off for a friendly favor. What's the point of having entree to the White House if you're not going to make some use of it?

To say that this is small-time stuff is not to say that it may not have tremendous implications. In England, when the Stanley-Belcher scandal broke a year or so ago, the whole nation was profoundly shocked. That was small-time stuff, too, but no one there thought for a minute that John Belcher could continue to serve as parliamentary secretary to the Board of Trade once the impropriety of his association with Mr. Sidney Stanley, a British "fixer," had been disclosed. But cronyism seems endemic here—or seems to have become so. And the most appalling aspect of all is that President Truman, whose confidence in his cronies has been so grossly and callously abused, seems reluctant to recognize the shadow it casts upon himself and upon the great office he occupies. It would be tragic indeed if access to the White House came generally to be thought of as access to "a couple of bucks."

Kick And Kiss

What has happened to the Dixiecrats at the hands of Democratic leaders looks like a modernized version of the old one-two treatment. First the Democratic National Committee, meeting in Washington, read out of the party the six Southern committee members who opposed President Truman and supported Gov. J. Strom Thurmond in the 1948 campaign. Then the President himself held out the olive branch and invited the Dixiecrats back into the party. However, the terms, couched in a message of sweetness and light, are unconditional surrender. Mr. Truman has maintained a righteous anger toward the forces that deserted him last fall, and his apparent tone of conciliation was part and parcel of a clear assertion of primacy.

Actually, a specific States Rights party could never hope to be more than a sectional influence in American politics, whatever the present efforts of the diehard Dixiecrats to perpetuate their offshoot. In the 1948 campaign the Dixiecrats were undeniably obstructionist, but the potency of that influence diminished on the day Mr. Truman won. The considerable patronage power in the hands of the Administration is too important a weapon to permit of long-continued deviationism.

President Truman can hardly expect, however, to gain 100 per cent support for his civil rights program from any Dixiecrats he lures back—or even, for that matter, from a substantial number of Southerners who remained loyal. In addition, there are many able Southern leaders whose help the President needs to carry out his program on matters other than civil rights—and, indeed, his exuberance over reunion is a little out of keeping with the legislative record. Still the Democrats need the South, and if the tail no longer wags the dog, as Mr. Truman put it, neither will the dog win many prizes without a tail.

Psalm Of The B-36

The exoneration of Air Force officials is a proper climax to the House investigation into the foolish and below-the-belt charges of dishonesty in B-36 bomber procurement. The admission of Mr. Cedric R. Worth that he wrote without foundation the "anonymous" document on which many of the charges were based reads like a Russian "Fascist dog" confession. In his position as special assistant to Undersecretary Kimball, Mr. Worth did a great disservice to the Navy, to the Air Force and to unification. But it is not only Mr. Worth's face that should be red. Talk of Navy involvement in the charges leading to the B-36 investigation has been current for weeks, and the charges have appeared to be an outgrowth of the persecution complex felt by some Navy people since the banning of the supercarrier. It is difficult to believe that the Navy could not have tracked down the author before this. It is also difficult to understand how Congressman Van Zandt, if he had been conscientious in his desire for facts, could have been a party to the smear.

Assuming that the B-36 has been chosen by sincere men as the best plane available for the task contemplated, however, there is still room for the House Armed Services Committee to challenge some of the oversimplifications indulged in by the strategic bombing spokesmen. An example was the statement of Gen. Carl A. Spaatz the other day that without atomic weapons and the intercontinental bomber in American hands, Russia's land armies could quickly overrun Europe and Asia. That is strange doctrine, coming on top of this country's entry into the Atlantic Pact. If the B-36 and the atom bomb are all that is holding off Russia, what, then, is the purpose of arming western Europe? And, as a matter of fact, if the Russians decided to sweep to the English Channel, just how could atom bombs and B-36s stop them? Bombs could reduce Russian cities, but they could hardly do more than temporarily hinder land armies.

This, in epitome, is the trouble with the B-36 lyricists. Their enthusiasm for one weapon and one airplane distorts their perspective so that strategic bombing becomes almost an obsession. Doubtless the Russians maintain a healthy respect for the B-36 and atom bombs. But the real strength of the United States and the real deterrent to Soviet Russia lie in our immense productive capacity and the elasticity of our economy. It is reasonable to assume that what gives the Kremlin pause is the knowledge that all of America's resources, rather than a single weapon or instrument, would be committed, in cooperation with the resources of other free nations, in the event of aggression.

The House committee's next job ought to be to analyze not only whether the B-36 is capable of doing what is claimed for it, but also whether the strategy of mass city bombing often outlined for the B-36 would best serve the national interest in war. In other words, strategic bombing ought to be related to the larger context of what we would seek to accomplish in war. Fitting strategic bombing into its proper relationship is first of all a responsibility of the National Security Council and the Joint Chiefs of Staff, but it is also a duty of Congress to see that the Nation does not fall victim to an overdose of salesmanship.

Qualitative Decline

Well, here it is August 27, and we are not much nearer to knowing how the 1949 baseball season is coming out than we were when it began four months ago. Because of the night games we must refer you to the sports pages for the latest statistical reports. But at this writing the two foremost clubs of the American League are 2½ games apart and the two foremost of the National League but one game apart. For that matter, there are but 3 percentage points of difference between our own Washington Senators and the St. Louis Browns, and no telling about which of them will end with the distinction of having been oftenest defeated.

Yet the reason for all the uncertainty seems to be that there is no really strong club in either league. Indeed, in the opinion of some of those who have had opportunity to observe all the clubs in action and are old enough to draw comparisons, the quality of big-league baseball today is hardly better than the Class A baseball of a generation ago. A check list of the really accomplished players still in service will show most of them are men who have passed their playing prime. The New York Yankees and St. Louis Cardinals, who are leading their respective leagues, though in each case precariously, seem to be composed very largely of willing but weary and somewhat spavined veterans.

Evidently, then, despite the farm systems and the elaborate scouting apparatus, satisfactory replacements are very difficult to find. Various explanations have been advanced for this, the most plausible of which is the innovation of night baseball. In the minor leagues nearly all weekday games are now played under lights, but in most of the lesser leagues the lighting is very poor indeed. Bad lighting complicates the difficulties of scouting, for it often appears to have the effect of making poor players seem good ones, and vice versa.

"Absentee Obstruction"

In your August 25 issue an editorial entitled, "Absentee Obstruction," states that my performance "calls for explanation." This is in relation to the Federal aid to education controversy.

The Associated Press and the United Press representatives on the Hill received a full explanation. Nevertheless, I'll be very happy to answer The Washington Post editorial.

I am in favor of Federal aid to education and have been for six years. I am against the Thomas bill because of its allocation of funds to parochial schools and because it places the stamp of approval on the segregated school system. My colleagues know this.

A conference was arranged in Representative Burke's office to try to iron out my objections. At that conference were Representatives Barden, N. C.; Steed, Okla.; Bailey, W. Va.; Perkins, Ky.; Sims, S. C., and Burke of Ohio. An agreement was reached and upon the basis of that agreement I signed the petition to our chairman, Representative Lesinski, requesting that he call a meeting of the full committee, and it was scheduled for August 24.

On August 23, I learned that Representative Sims was going to move the Thomas bill. Your reporter, Mary Spargo, in front page story on August 24, stated that Sims, at the round table discussion, said that the 13 were not in agreement on any one bill. Representative Burke questioned Representative Sims and asked him if he was planning to do that. Representative Sims said that he was not. Representative Perkins could not promise me, prior to the meeting, that the Thomas bill would not be brought up.

These men broke their word to me and, I have reason to believe, to Representatives Steed, Burke and Barden. I thereupon sent a letter at 10 a. m., August 24, to Chairman Lesinski, with carbon copies to Representatives Sims and Perkins, stating why I would not be present.

Nazism In Austria

The American taxpayer pays more than 240 million dollars a year in ERP help to Austria. Supported by this essential American help, Austrians are building up the basis for a future repetition of the National Socialist adventure.

The largest Austrian government party negotiated in May in Oberweis (Upper Austria—American zone of Austria) with leading former members of the National Socialist Party over National Socialist influence in the legislature, executive and judiciary. This leading Austrian party tried in July to get through a general amnesty for major National Socialist politicians and the only reason it did not succeed was that it needed a qualified, not a simple, majority of votes. Austrian children are sent in organized groups to Franco Spain, where most likely they are educated for fascism or National Socialism in Austria. New parties and new papers are founded which are reputed to be sympathetic toward the National Socialists.

By and large, the returning emigrants and other survivors of Hitler's mass slaughter have only a small part of the prewar position in their trade. They have far less than the Aryans whose families did war service for Hitler. Many of the emigrants, qualified people in their profession, are living in misery. Of a general repenting of the horrid crimes committed under the National Socialists there is not the slightest trace among the Austrian population.

Rehabilitation of the victims of National Socialism has, however, made some headway. Certain kinds of fortunes of the victims were given back. But essentially needed laws for repairing the wrong done have not been gotten through. As far as the central government offices are concerned, the attitude is still reasonable. As soon as you come to lower offices, to professional associations, etc., which have to distribute raw material, give recommendations for licenses for importations, etc., the experiences of the returning emigrants are often not good. The attitude of the broad public is hostile, haughty and impertinent.

It would check this dangerous development in Austria if the Government of the United States of America would (1) declare, that it will give ERP help to Austria according to the degree that reestablishment of any National Socialism or facism is avoided;

(2) declare that it will give ERP help, which is accorded for humanitarian reasons, to the degree only that Austrians accord rehabilitation to the victims of Hitler. H. R.
Vienna, Austria.

Race and Home Rule

Negroes constitute not less than one third of the people of the District of Columbia. An organized militant "minority," holding the balance of power, backed by the Truman Administration, directed by the NAACP and the Council on African Affairs, together with the Communists, these Negroes (aided by new arrivals, the Negroes of Washington are increasing in number at a considerably greater rate than the whites) would from the first under home rule dictate wholly the political, and largely the social, government. The city would almost immediately become primarily the capital of the Negro race, and only secondarily the Capital of the United States. Naturally the Negroes of the Nation favor this. No doubt a majority of the informed white people of Washington and the Nation are opposed to it.

Aid To China

With great interest, I read Mr. Shefferman's August 23 letter, "Behind the White Paper on China." I stopped for a while at his last paragraph, in which he asks the leaders and generals of Nationalist China who betrayed their country through their grafting course, to return their "ill-gotten" money to their country and do with it what they ought to do. I really cannot understand how that is possible, for how can anyone expect back money that has been stolen? Besides, that is not a satisfactory remedy to the critical strategic situation in China.

China is crumbling faster and faster, and the only remedy for Nationalist China is for the United States to continue its aid. This aid should be hastened and strictly supervised, as has been proposed; otherwise the sad result of the Nationalists is inevitable, for more than 60 per cent of the Nationalist troops have, so far, been destroyed.

Health Insurance

We protect ourselves against the hardships of old age and unemployment. We can do the same with health. Why would compulsory health insurance be any more socialistic, if that is what you want to call it, than this public housing bill just passed.

About 86 million Americans have no health insurance protection. Less than 2½ per cent of our people belong to comprehensive health insurance plans, covering most of their medical services. The American Medical Association claims that voluntary plans alone can finance America's health needs. But only a few years ago it condemned and tried to cripple these same plans. Today under pressure of national health insurance, the AMA pays lip service to voluntary plans but tries to destroy those it cannot dominate.

The demand for more comprehensive medical care and budgeting has grown within 10 years from a whisper to a roar. The welfare of our people must be given as much consideration as the welfare of the health professions.

Metcalfe's Poems

I write to protest one item of vulgarity that daily occupies a few square inches of The Washington Post by way of the great road of syndication. I refer to James J. Metcalfe's "Portraits."

My objection to these effusions is not that they are bad poetry but that they are pure unadulterated tripe of the most sentimental, vacuous, and nauseating variety. The reason for this is that Mr. M. has never had anything to say fit to be read by an adult-minded human being. This leaves only children, animals, and plants, to all of whom I am sure "Portraits" would be unmercifully dull. No one, I submit, can read them without being sick.

The worst of it is that without doubt every person on the staff of The Washington Post would agree with me. Therefore, giving space to these "Portraits" reflects an insincerity of the most insidious type. Up till last week I was willing to ignore them (for after all I don't have to read 'em), but then members of my family, whose literary judgment is often well weighed if violent, began to discuss Metcalfe at the dinner table in language that wasn't fittin'; and then I decided something ought to be done.

Briefly, why not let other papers print Metcalfe's "trollish" if they want to, but not The Washington Post! As the late Hendrick Willem Van Loon once said, about bad whisky, "I see no reason why we should drink it when there is so much good."

PAUL H. OEHSER.

Lonely Heart Clubs

Recurrent eruptions of scandal concerning lonely hearts clubs call for some mention of their everyday achievements for a better world.

Such clubs represent a sincere philanthropic effort. They speak no ill of anyone, bear no grudges, regard nobody as a "stranger" to be feared and distrusted. Their marriages, approximating 50,000 couples a year are more stable and intelligent than others—for they accommodate largely "introverts," who are sound marriage bets but poor social "mixers."

Correspondence clubs are not highly profitable. Most of them are conducted by people who know from their own experience what it is to be without anyone. Loneliness figures prominently as a cause of crime, alcoholism, mental illness and lack of patriotism, all of which the clubs are helping to correct—and most of all, they add to human happiness. Success Tournament

By Malvina Lindsay

How to Achieve

LEMUEL GULLIVER, the intrepid adventurer of Swift's Gulliver's Travels, now these many years a cosmic explorer, was fortunate enough to land in Washington in late August, 1955, when the first All-American Success Tournament was being held. He was taken at once to Griffith Stadium by one of his planetary guides.

"Who," asked Gulliver at once, "are those masses of crowned sea nymphs filling the grandstand?"

"Oh those," said the guide, "are our queens—the queens of every State, city, town, village, college, high school, organization, convention—"

"Just a minute," interrupted Gulliver, "I thought this was a republic."

"These are bathing beauty—I mean beauty queens. The State winners are on their way to Atlantic City where the Nation's queen will be chosen in a few days."

"Will she reign in Washington?"

"No—probably Hollywood."

"How can they be judged," persisted Gulliver, "when they all look exactly alike?"

"Not to Americans," said the guide. "We here learn early to be connoisseurs of such things. We constantly see their pictures on our walls, our magazine covers, in our newspapers. We see them exhibiting their charms in the movies, on the television screen, at the beaches, on the streets. Girls from the time they are six days old are entered in contests to be beauty queens."

"BEAUTY . . . beauty . . . beauty," repeated Gulliver. "I even see it advertised in shop signs . . . By the way, what are all those groups of 10 occupying boxes?"

"Those," explained the guide proudly, "are our women of outstanding achievement—our 10 best dressed, our 10 most photographed, our 10 most soignee, our 10 with the best legs, our 10 with the best bosoms, our 10 best televised, our 10 most married to millionaires, and in the collegiate section our 10 best drum majors, our 10 best cheer leaders, our 10 best wearers of sweaters, while in the business section are our 10 secretaries with the straightest stocking seams—"

"Wait," protested Gulliver. "What about your men? Do they have no chance at achievement?"

"Look out in the field," instructed the guide. "Several tournaments for men are on this minute. One is to choose the best master of ceremonies, another the best crooner, another the best umpire cusser, another the radio announcer with the most umph in his voice—"

"What is umph?" broke in Gulliver.

"It's hard to explain but it has everything to do with success. Now if you will note those other contests being called—one to choose the best redheaded woman, another the best disk jockey, another the best band leader. I can get you the list—"

"Don't bother," said Gulliver. "My chief interest is to study the arts of civilization. This being your Capital, I should like to see the legislators and other officials who have received awards, honors, citations for their statesmanship, or public service."

"WELL—er you see—well we don't have such things. What I mean is—well, we can't have this success tournament taken into politics. It would be a dirty mess. Anyway both sides are so busy fighting each other, they don't have any time for statesmanship."

"But of course you have citations for outstanding parents?"

"Parents? . . . Parents? . . . Oh, you mean mothers. Well I—I believe somebody or other names a mother-of-the-year. And then we have Mother's Day. It's quite a big thing commercially People buy—"

"What about teachers?" broke in Gulliver. "You must have lots of accolades to encourage them, especially since I understand they're so hard to get."

"Teachers? . . . You've got me stumped on that. To tell the truth, I don't believe I ever heard of any awards for teachers."

"But you surely honor your religious leaders?"

"Oh no! no! no! That would be as risky as an award in politics. Religion is dynamite right now."

"But tell me, don't you do anything at all in your success tournament to honor people, say scientists who are trying to help man civilize himself, grow up, learn to get along with his fellows?"

The guide looked puzzled. "I don't quite get you. But you said something about scientists. I tell you what we're going to do next year. We're going to pick the 10 makers of the best household gadgets. And get this! We're going to have a big give-away for a scientist! Yes! The one who does most to develop a really hot weapon!"

Hurley's Individualism

Gen. Patrick Hurley's "Meet the Press" television appearance reaffirms the existence of the rugged individualism which has made America great.

Born in Oklahoma when it was still Indian Territory, General Hurley retains the spirit and fire of the West and displays an intense hatred of the forces which would today undermine the individual freedoms upon which this country was founded.

His idea that we should have disarmed the defeated Japanese and given these arms to the Chinese Nationalists was a good one and it is too bad it was not carried out. READER.

A Communication

Education's Place in Reorganization Plans

By Edgar Fuller

Executive Secretary, National Council of Chief State School Officers

THE UNITED STATES SENATE, by vote of 60 to 32 on August 16, refused to create a Federal Department of Welfare to include education, health and social security. Doctors and dentists were primarily responsible for the defeat of the proposed Welfare Department, with their professional organizations favoring a Cabinet post for health services rather than the independent agency suggested by a majority of the Hoover Commission.

Although the battle was one of the hardest fought of the Eighty-first Congress, and was of crucial importance to education, most educators were only casual onlookers. They were onlookers in spite of the fact that the success of the plan would have eliminated entirely the separate identity and small remaining autonomy of the United States Office of Education.

Some educational organizations even gave a little support to Reorganization Plan No. 1, and supporters of the Taft-Fulbright proposal for a Cabinet Department of Health, Education and Welfare were quoted in the Senate debate as favoring it. The Taft-Fulbright proposal, of course, would have preserved a measure of independence in the Office of Education and the Public Health Service, while Reorganization Plan No. 1 would have placed both completely at the mercy of political officers.

The majority of the Hoover Commission was willing to give health an independent agency because the profession of medicine had a voice and used it. The entire Hoover Commission plus the Truman Administration were willing to abolish all semblance of independence in the Federal educational agency because the profession of education, if it has a voice, has not used it effectively. Chairman Hoover and the commission merely ignored the representations made in December, 1948, by the National Education Association, American Association of School Administration and chief State school officers in favor of an independent Federal agency for education.

THESE ISSUES in Federal educational organization arise out of fundamentally different and conflicting viewpoints about the place of education in government. One viewpoint, commonly held by political theorists and practitioners in the administration of general government, holds that public education is similar to any other function of the executive branches of local, State and Federal governments, and that its administration should accordingly be directly under the control of the chief political officer in the town, city, county, State and Federal governments. This view prevailed in the Hoover Commission and would have been implemented if Reorganization Plan No. 1 had succeeded.

Most educators, on the contrary, believe that educational administration, somewhat like the administration of impartial and nonpartisan justice by judges, needs some protection from politics and politicians. This viewpoint finds expression in the election of boards of laymen on a nonpartisan basis, with authority to appoint the chief educational administrator and to shield him enough from the local politicians to enable him to serve effectively as a professional leader of the school system.

Separation of education administration from municipal politics prevails in about 85 per cent of American local school systems. The school board typically has complete fiscal and administrative independence from the municipal government. The legal theory is as clear as the practice. School boards are the governing bodies of political subdivisions of the State, and are held by the courts to be State officers locally elected. The school district is not strictly a municipal corporation, but a quasi-corporation of limited powers designated by the State Legislature to administer public education, which is everywhere a function of the State under our system of constitutional government.

In approximately 15 per cent of American school districts, including a majority of the large cities, there are varying degrees of dependence by local school boards on municipal officers. It is in these districts that education is most mixed up with partisan politics, and where the administration of public education is usually least satisfactory.

FISCAL dependence of local school authorities has commonly grown out of a lack of separate legal tax and debt limits for school districts. When the school district tax and debt limits are combined with the municipal tax and debt limits, the respective shares have had to be determined. The determination has usually been made by the municipal authorities. The remedy is to set separate tax and debt limits for school districts, such as has been done by State law in California and other States, thus giving school boards the fiscal responsibility prerequisite to fiscal independence.

Although many political theorists and municipal politicians still seek to control the State function of education by including it within the general municipal government, the trend is fortunately in the direction of local school board autonomy. Schools cost so much these days that many politicians have discovered them to be political liabilities rather than political assets when their budgets are included in the municipal budgets.

One of the most recent and clearest indications of the trend can be seen in the recommendation of a committee composed of State and local educators, educational officials, government officials and representatives of taxpayers and other civic groups, all under the chairmanship of the Comptroller of the State of New York, that all school boards in New York cities of 125,000 or less be given complete fiscal independence and responsibility as soon as separate school district tax limits can be established.

THE SAME fundamental conflict exists in the State governments between educators and those who would place education entirely under the political executive. Here, again, both present practice and the trend are clear. In 30 of the States, the chief State school officer is elected by the people, often on a nonpartisan ballot. In a majority of these States he is a constitutional officer, with the same constitutional and legal standing within his field of authority as the Governor has within his own field of authority.

In 11 of the States, the chief State school officer is one step removed from the general authority of the Governor through appointment by a State board of education. The members of the State board are typically appointed by the Governor for long overlapping terms, which gives the board considerable independence. Two States, Utah and Washington, have further removed the chief State school officer and the State board of education from gubernatorial politics by providing that conventions of local school board members shall elect the members of the State board of education.

The Governor appoints the chief State school officer, and thus brings the State educational agency into direct responsibility to the political head of the State government, in only seven States.

Changes in recent years have all been in the direction favored by educators rather than in the direction of subordination of education to general government. In Massachusetts, Missouri, Idaho, Colorado, and Texas, State boards of education have recently been provided, with increased independence from general State government and with authority to appoint the chief State school officer.

IN THE Federal Government, however, education is not as well served. The major Federal educational functions are administered by noneducational agencies as by-products of their respective agency programs, without the benefit of a deliberative and nonpartisan board of education of the kind which has been so successfully employed in State and local school systems.

Until recently, there has been no real effort to define the educational policies of the Federal Government. There has been notable indifference to the necessary coordination of Federally aided programs with the State and local educational structure. State and local school authorities have never known what next to expect from the Federal Government and have become almost inured to surprise at any educational program that may be thrust upon them from Washington.

Educators have a tremendous responsibility for educating all members of the profession, the general public and both the legislative and executive branches of the local, State and Federal governments on this fundamental issue. Educational government must have a measure of independence from municipal, State and national politics, and freedom from domination by municipal, State and Federal politicians.

Finnish Metal Workers Strike As Reds Renew Labor Battle

Helsinki, Findland, Aug. 26 (AP).—Finnish Communist strike leaders began to throw fresh forces today into a labor battle designed—the government charges—to wreck Finland's economy.

Metal industry workers, producers of most of the Finnish war reparations goods, walked out at one center and others nearby threatened to stop work Monday. A workers' spokesman said strike agitators are busy in several other shops.

Spokesmen for the trade union federation and the metal workers union said the strikes and threats to walk out must be considered political actions even if negotiations for higher wages have been going on at some shops.

Communists called for a one-hour general demonstration strike next Thursday, the day Parliament convenes and the appointed time for burial of two persons who died as a result of clashes between police and striking loggers at Kemi August 18.

Most ports remained strike-bound, building construction is held up and some big bakeries are idle.

Washington Calling

How Can Britain Be Helped?

THE PATIENT is on the operating table. The nurses and the young internes are taking the preliminary steps. Soon the chief surgeons will gather round to decide what must be done first.

Childs

Britain's financial - economic system is in a bad way. That is one thing that practically everyone is agreed on. If the present drain on the gold reserve in London continues unchecked, a point dangerously close to bankruptcy will have been reached by Christmas.

About what to do in the emergency there is the widest disagreement. Even though many imports were shut off in an effort to save precious dollars, the trade gap in July was still 160 million dollars. This is 56 million dollars less than the gap for June.

The talks between Britain and the United States that will begin in earnest with the arrival of Chancellor of the Exchequer Sir Stafford Cripps and Foreign Minister Ernest Bevin have been heralded as a crisis conference to find a solution. That is far too optimistic, given the relatively short time that Bevin and Cripps plan to spend in Washington. About all that can be accomplished is an exploratory operation with temporary measures taken to stop the flow of life blood.

BUT EVEN on these temporary measures there is no agreement. So far as I have been able to discover no responsible official in Britain seriously considered proposing the scheme for upping the price of America's gold in order to show a paper profit that could be used to bail out the British. Obviously such a scheme would never go down here.

One temporary measure the British continue to hope will be possible is a substantial increase in Marshall Plan assistance for the current year. While increasing the British allotment by several hundred millions the United States would at the same time make a considerable part of the total available at once.

This, however, is also likely to be regarded as both politically and economically impossible. It is in the context, as one can see with the wisdom of hindsight, of the head-in-the-sand unreality with which the two nations have dealt in the postwar years.

On the British side the easy assumption was that since America needed Britain and Britain's far-flung geography and defense system in the cold war with communism, American aid could be counted on whenever the pinch was severe. On the American side the complacent belief was cultivated that a loan and the monetary help given through the Marshall Plan would fix everything up. How ostrich-like this was we are now seeing.

THERE ARE ways to get back somewhat nearer to the realities of the present moment. An American guarantee to make larger purchases of basic commodities for stockpiling is one way to insure more dollars to the sterling area. If it is argued that we might pay more for buying and stockpiling commodities from abroad, then the answer is that we shall at least be getting something for our money.

On this side tariffs can be lowered still further. Customs regulations can be relaxed or at any rate prevailing regulations need not be interpreted as intending the strangulation of all trade. While these steps will not be sufficient to cure the trouble, they will be a move away from the unreal belief that gratitude for past services is sufficient to keep the wartime allies together. Gratitude is too fleeting an emotion for a solid relationship.

Since steps such as these are not enough, other and more drastic moves will have to be considered. Devaluation of the pound is one which the American conferees consider essential. The British continue to regard devaluation as a doubtful remedy unless it is taken along with other and far more sweeping changes.

The British representatives will be told firmly that it is necessary first of all to reduce costs of production in order to compete in world markets. This would undoubtedly mean abandonment of some of the social services under attack in this country. The possible political effects of such a counter-revolution will be considered in a following column.

There is one overwhelming reality that seems to me to reduce all prejudice and everything else to trivia. Britain and the United States must somehow cooperate if the free world is to survive. To split up would be to give Russia a weapon of incalculable value. It could assure the final triumph of totalitarianism.

Senate Votes Air Force Cut

Lucas said Mr. Truman neither wants nor needs such authority. But he forecast nonetheless that Congress will trim Federal spending about $1,800,000,000 below budget estimates.

He said money bills already cleared by the Senate have been reduced by 800 million dollars and that the additional 1 billion dollars will be eliminated from measures still tied up in the chamber's fiscal log jam.

"This proposal for meat-ax economy is utterly unconstitutional," Lucas said. "The founding fathers of this Nation declared that Congress should have the power of the purse. We must not surrender that power to any Chief Executive."

Knowland Leads Fight

Senator William F. Knowland (R., Calif.) led the vain fight to prevent the reduction in Air Force funds, which had been recommended by the Senate Appropriations Committee.

He said Congress should hesitate to "clip the wings of the eagle" at a time when the "danger of overt Communist aggression" was so great.

But Chairman Millard R. Tydings (D., Md.) of the Armed Services Committee, argued that Air Force Secretary W. Stuart Symington is "thoroughly satisfied" with the 48-group plan.

On the final tally, Knowland was joined in voting against the reduction by Senators Lister Hill (D., Ala.), Lyndon Johnson (D., Tex.), Wayne Morse (R., Oreg.), Joseph C. O'Mahoney (D., Wyo.), Karl E. Mundt (R., S. Dak.), John J. Sparkman (D., Ala.), and Margaret Chase Smith (R., Me.).

Senator Harley M. Kilgore (D., W. Va.) defended the budget slash. He said the best planes the Russians have are copied from the B-29 and that "we have acres of them in mothballs."

Another amendment, adopted by voice vote, would direct Secretary of Defense Johnson to assign a special assistant to aid small-business men in getting contracts to supply the armed forces without them needing help of a "5-percenter" agent. It was offered by Senator Humphrey (D., Minn.).

pictures of suspects, although he felt sure he could identify them.

Reuther said the police showed "laxity" and that the refusal of the FBI to investigate the shooting "baffles me."

A spokesman for the union said here that Victor Reuther had made the remarks in a private conversation and that he "intended no reflection on the Detroit police department."

Told of the union's statement, Toy snapped: "I still want them down here. Let's clean the air. I want to get at the bottom of this."

Walter, president of the UAW, and Victor, union education director, were victims of separate assassination attempts, which cost Walter the full use of his right arm and Victor the sight of one eye.

Toy charged Reuther is "digging deep down into the barrel to take a political slap at me and Mayor (Eugene I.) Van Antwerp." Toy is a supporter of Van Antwerp, opposed in the mayoral primary by council president George Edwards, who has UAW backing.

Reuther also said in New York that the FBI refused to enter the investigation despite a unanimous appeal of the United States Senate.

"The FBI says it has no jurisdiction," he said. "But how do they know? If they catch the gunmen and discover they have no jurisdiction they don't have to prosecute."

Maragon Refuses to Reply To Questions by Senators tax investigators would "follow through" on it.

The threat of a perjury charge grew out of Maragon's sworn testimony, given at a closed session late in July, that he had received no money for handling matters before the Government except what he had mentioned in his income-tax returns.

Chairman Hoey (D., N. C.) said yesterday that this, together with testimony seeming to refute it, would be turned over to the Department of Justice "for such action as it may deem necessary."

Sits With Spectators

Maragon, smoking one cigarette after another, sat with Attorney Ehrlich among the spectators at the early part of yesterday's hearing in Room 357 of the Senate Office Building.

Some of the testimony that went into the record, meantime, might ordinarily be described as embarrassing.

Francis Flanagan, assistant chief counsel of the committee, read a memorandum from Dr. Henry F. Grady, who was chief of the Mission to Observe the Greek Elections in 1945-46.

Maragon, it had be brought out the day before, got a job with this mission through the backing of General Vaughan and Edwin Pauley.

The latter, writing on White House stationery, said he was a good friend of President Truman's. Maragon was put on the State Department payroll with a $5600-a-year salary as administrative assistant.

Called a "Nuisance"

Dr. Grady, in the memorandum read yesterday, said he got orders from the State Department on February 28 to send Maragon home. He added that, even without instructions, he would have sent him home because "he was making himself a nuisance."

"I learned," said Dr. Grady, "that he was showing a picture of himself with the President and stating, or at least implying, that he was sent by the President to report to him directly on the activities of the mission.

"He got into difficulties with the ATC (the Army's Air Transport Command) because he began 'investigating' them . . . There were a number of other activities of this nature which made him a source of embarrassment to me and the mission."

"Absolutely Untrue"

"His statement that he had reported to me cases of excessive drinking and association with Communists on the part of members of the mission is absolutely untrue. The only person's behavior I discussed with him was his own . . ."

Later came the whopping expense account Maragon turned into the Verley Co., for a period when he was on the State Department payroll and getting $15 a day for expenses.

Counsel William P. Rogers noted that Maragon even charged the perfume company $565 for his flight across the Atlantic, although, in fact, he had been provided free transportation by the Government.

Maragon was called to testify just after this.

He appeared nonchalant as he moved past the press tables and headed for the witness stand. He yelled "Hi, Jack" at Jack Steele, New York Herald Tribune reporter, who "broke" the story about 5-percenters and influence peddlers, and therefore was responsible for his being there.

Maragon shook hands also with a couple of the reporters, Joseph H. Short of the Baltimore Sun and Jack Doherty of the New York Daily News.

Asked by Chairman Hoey to give his name, Maragon spelled it out letter by letter, and did the same thing in giving McLean, Va., as his address. In response to a question about his occupation, he said he was helping in the publication of two books—Who's Who of the Republican and Democratic Parties.

At this point, Attorney Ehrlich broke in and asked for permission to make a statement.

There was a bustling of exchitement in the committee room. Flash bulbs went off, the whir of newsreel cameras was heard, and 60 reporters held their pencils ready.

It was certainly a high spot in the career of the witness, who started out as an immigrant shoeshine boy and had come to be called "good friend" by the military aide to the President.

Tells of Advising Client

Attorney Ehrlich began reading a prepared statement. He had, he said, advised his client to stand on his constitutional right and refuse to answer certain questions on the ground his answer might tend to incriminate him.

Chairman Hoey broke in to say Margon was entitled to stand on his constitutional immunity, but the committee would proceed to ask some questions.

Ehrlich never reached a significant part of his statement, which read:

"In the light of many newspaper interviews given out by certain members of the committee, and counsel for the committee, to the effect that possible criminal proceedings might be had against the witness, I deem it my duty to give him advice at this time not to answer certain questions on the ground that his answers might tend to incriminate him.

Earlier Testimony Recalled

"As you know this protection is afforded every person in the United States under the Fifth Amendment to the Constitution, which states that no person shall be compelled in any criminal action to be a witness against himself."

He pointed out that Maragon was not represented by counsel when he was questioned at a closed session of the committee.

Chairman Hoey, when the questioning finally began, asked Maragon about his statement at the closed session that he had never received pay for appearing before Government agencies in connection with contracts.

"I refuse to answer," said Maragon, "on the advice of counsel, on the ground that my answer might tend to incriminate me."

'It's Ridiculous'

He made the same reply when asked about his bank accounts, his income-tax returns and the dual role he played in Europe as a Government employe and a Verley Co. employe who turned in a $9500 expense account.

Senator McCarthy (R., Wis.) asked him if he had ever worked for Frank Costello, apparently the New York gambler and reputed "czar" of the slot-machine racket.

Maragon refused to answer.

(In New York, George Wolf, attorney for Costello, commented: "I haven't the faintest notion whether Maragon ever worked for Mr. Costello. I'm not going to ask him either. It's ridiculous. He gets blamed for everything—even bad weather.")

McCarthy asked Maragon also if he ever worked for William Helis, wealthy sportsman whose name figured earlier in the hearing in connection with the Tanforan race track. General Vaughan was quoted as telling Housing Expediter Tighe Woods to "hurry up" action on a construction permit for Tanforan.

(Helis said in New York Maragon never worked for him, but admitted he knew him.)

"I knew John when he was a kid in Kansas City," Helis said. "I met him around Washington, too. John's not a bad boy. He just doesn't know what in the hell he's doing."

Senator McCarthy asked Maragon whether he had worked for Phil Kastel or the Whiteley Corp., and got the by now familiar answer.

Breaks the Monotony

Senator Mundt broke in and took over the questioning. He said he had a question he thought would break the monotony.

"Do you know Gen. Harry Vaughan?" Mundt asked.

"Yes," said Maragon.

"Have you ever been associated with General Vaughan in any activities?"

"On the advice of counsel, Senator, I refuse to answer the question on the grounds that the answer might tend to incriminate me."

"Not being a lawyer," said Mundt, "that leaves me with the impression that you and the general have been engaged in some activities which are incriminating."

Counsel Whispers

Attorney Ehrlich whispered to Maragon, who then said:

"Senator, regarding the implication, I leave no implication, but I am following my counsel's advice."

"I can't help what your counsel advises," Mundt said, "but your counsel can't cut out the implication which I got from what you said. You said you know Harry Vaughan, but you would not talk about the activities . . ."

Maragon retorted that he did not care about Mundt's implications.

Senator Margaret Chase Smith (R., Me.) asked Maragon when he first met General Vaughan.

Maragon said he met him when President Truman was Senator from Missouri and Vaughan was a member of his staff. At that time, he explained, he as a representative of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad and solicited business on Capitol Hill.

Senator Smith then asked him if he knew James V. Hunt, whom she has described as the "main star" in the 5-percenter investigation.

The witness said he had met him on two or three occasions in hotel lobbies, but that was all.

Senator McCarthy again came in with questions, this time about Greece. He wanted to know if he, Maragon, ever boasted that he, "the Reverend Daniels" and General Vaughan formulated the Truman policy for Greece.

Maragon said he knew "Father Daniels," but he denied discussing the Greek situation with him.

McCarthy kept after him.

"Senator," said Maragon, "I want to tell you once and for all that I had nothing to do with any formulation of any foreign policy, whether it is Greece or Bolivia or any other country."

Later, however, he conceded he might have talked to General Vaughan about the guerilla fighting in Greece. He said this would have been only natural in view of "the blaring front-page reports."

He refused to answer questions about when he first talked to General Vaughan or Pauley about going to Greece.

Silence "Incriminating"

He likewise refused to answer a series of questions about whether he did business for the Verley Co. while he was with the Greek Elections Mission and whether he was drawing pay from both the State Department and the perfume company.

Senator Mundt broke in to ask:

"You heard the testimony, Mr. Maragon, of Mr. Bellino, stating that it appeared to him that an income-tax fraud case would lie against you for failure to report on your income tax some of the salary and commissions you have received.

"Is there any information you would like to give the committee at this time to make that testimony less incriminating?"

Maragon refused to answer.

"It seems to me," said Mundt, "that your silence on that question is much more incriminating than anything you could say. Have you advised with your counsel as to the result . . .

Chairman Hoey interrupted to remark that the witness had "a right to rely on his constitutional right."

"He has," Mundt agreed.

"I do not think he should be questioned about it," said Hoey.

"I am asking," Mundt said, "whether he has advised with his counsel as to the incriminating aspects of his current testimony."

"I do not think that is proper," said Hoey. "Under the law and under the Constitution a man has a perfect right, and I do not think he should be examined."

Hunt's Health Poor

Chairman Hoey ruled, in the end, that the statement prepared by Ehrlich could not be put in the record. He said it was not the statement of the witness.

When Ehrlich said he wanted to submit it as the witness' statement, Hoey said the witness could not submit a statement when he refused to testify.

Senator McCarthy said:

"Counsel is arguing something which he may argue before a Federal court on some later date. I do not think this is the forum for this discussion."

Chairman Hoey then anounced he had a report on Hunt, the central figure in the inquiry.

He said that doctors—including Dr. George W. Calver, who watches out for the health of Senators and Representatives—had found Hunt was suffering from a serious heart condition and other ailments and that it was "impossible" for him to testify at this time.

Senator McCarthy said he hoped that eventually both Hunt and David A. Bennett, head of the perfume company, who also is ill, both could testify.

Otherwise, he said, there might be a suspicion the committee was content "to throw some of the smaller fry to the wolves."

Grindle, a former reporter for the New York Herald Tribune, supplied information about Hunt that precipitated the Capitol Hill inquiry.

"When Mr. Grindle was in the office," Martin said, "we did not know that he was merely gathering material for a story, but assumed that he was what he represented himself to be—a small businessman sincerely anxious to get Government business."

He said he doubted Hunt ever made the statement attributed to him by Grindle, to the effect that all he had to sell was influence. He said he thought it significant that this wasn't mentioned in the original Herald Tribune story. Obviously, he said, "someone thought it up later."

Joseph H. Kraus, attorney for the Verley Co., caused a stir at the end of yesterday's hearing when he tried in vain to put a statement into the record.

Bennett Makes Statement

The statement, given to reporters later with Counsel Rogers acquiescence, said Bennett didn't know for nine months that Maragon had difficulties with the customs people and that a container of perfume oil, declared as champagne, had been taken from him.

It said that when Bennett found out and gave Maragon $1500 to pay a fine, Maragon's employment with Verley was terminated.

The statement said Maragon did make another trip overseas for Verley in 1948, but not as an employe. Bennett advanced him a loan of $500, it explained further, and "the money has not been repaid."

Wide A-Energy Use Seen 20 Years Off

By John G. Rogers

Lake Success, Aug. 26 (NYHT).—J. A. Krug, Secretary of the Interior, predicted today it will be 20 years before atomic energy is subject to proper international control, and therefore ready for broad use for peacetime purposes.

At the same time, he appealed for public concern over the need to conserve American natural resources, and to start using them wisely now, rather than delay sound conservation until a crisis forces such a move.

Krug told a news conference at the United Nations Scientific Conference on Conservation and Utilization of Resources that for three years he had been trying to increase Government production of liquid fuel in the Colorado shale fields, but that oil and coal interests blocked him in Congress, out of fear of competition.

Oil reserves some day will be exhausted—even the experts don't know exactly when—but the end is inevitable, Krug said, and for that reason it is important to start developing other fuel sources now.

The consensus of opinion of top oil men at a special U. N. meeting today was that nobody knew how much oil there is in the earth and nobody is likely to know for a long time.

Against known estimated American oil reserves of 26 billion barrels, Krug said that there was a reserve of 200 billion barrels of fuel in one Colorado shale field alone, and that one Government plant has been producing 50 barrels daily of Diesel oil and jet fuel. Refinement into gasoline is the next step.

Krug said the public would probably reap an immediate benefit in lowered gasoline and coal prices, forced down by competition.

Krug also said his department was nearing completion of a study on the possibilities of utilizing solar energy and that probably soon he will seek appropriations to continue the research necessary to harness the sun.

Ex-GI Tells How Probers Learned of Famous Trip

By The Associated Press

A 25-year-old former GI yesterday disclosed how Senate '5 percent" investigators found out about a business trip two Chicago perfumers made to Europe shortly after V-E Day in May, 1945.

The two, Davd Bennett, president of the Albert Verley Perfume Co., and his associate, Otto Baptiste, traveled in an Army plane when space was at a premium.

Walter E. Rhodes, jr., of Baltimore, told Senate investigation subcommittee members and newspapermen about it in the office of Senator Mundt (R., S Dak.)

Father Tells Mundt

Rhodes, now a student at the University of Maryland, said he was flight traffic clerk on the C-54 which brought Bennett and Baptiste from Newfoundland to New York.

Five unusual aspects of the flight, he told reporters, made him remember the two civilians.

This, in turn, he said: Led him to write a letter about the incident last week to his father, Walter E. Rhodes, sr., a Baltimore attorney, after he had read accounts of the "5 percent" investigation.

Rhodes senior, who had met Mundt previously, turned the letter over to him and Mundt said this led committee investigators to dig up details about the hitherto unknown trip.

Tells of Guard

The younger Rhodes said he remembered the trip because:

1. The two men had a guard posted over their baggage at Newfoundland and again at La Guardia Field, N. Y. The committee later found out that 41 kilos—about 90 pounds—of perfume essence was in the baggage.

2. One man carried a letter from the White House which, in effect, gave the pair the status of "VIPs" very important persons.

3. They were riding in a "bucket-seat" plane, instead of a "plush job" such as usually used by "VIPs."

4. No other private businessmen were traveling during that period.

5. The men talked a lot about perfume; told him that a bottle he had purchased in Paris "for the girl I was going with then" was only a "good imitation" of a famous brand, and later sent the girl a bottle of Verley perfume.

Calling List

10 a. m.—Cabinet.

11—Edward Keating.

11:15—Budget Director Pace.

11:30—Nicholas Kelley, president, National Civil Service League.

11:45—Chairman William Boyle of Democratic National Committee.

Truman Proposes $2500 Gold Medal For Barkley

President Truman yesterday asked Congress to vote $2500 for a gold medal to be presented to Vice President Barkley.

The medal, authorized by a recent act, is to be given as a "gesture in recognition of the Vice President's distinguished public service and outstanding contribution to the general welfare," the President said. The medal would be made at the U. S. Mint.

In another appropriation sought yesterday, the President requested $13,500 for improvements and repairs to the Senate Office Building Cafeteria. Both money requests will be considered by the House Appropriations Committee

3 New Perils To Health Listed By AMA Journal

Chicago, Aug. 26 (AP).—Three new health perils encountered by specialized workers were noted today in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

Articles described them as prolonged close exposure to fluorescent lighting, which has produced skin irritations in factory workers; exposure of unprotected skin to arc-welding glare, causing lip sores, and accidental pricking of their own skin by laboratory technicians and blood-bank workers which can result in infection.

Vatican Silent On St. Peter Story

Vatican City, Aug. 26 (AP).—Without confirming or denying reports that St. Peter's bones have been found, the Vatican radio has urged faithful Catholics to await a "great revelation" by the Holy See concerning the tomb of St. Peter.

This represents the only authoritative Vatican comment thus far on American newspaper reports that the apostle's bones have been discovered under St. Peter's Basilica in Vatican City.

The Holy See radio broadcast the summary of an article appearing in the Catholic Action newspaper, Quotidiano, under the headline: "Premature news and confident awaiting."

"This represents our views," a director of the Vatican radio said.

Neither the Vatican radio nor Quotidiano attempted to predict whether the Holy See's forthcoming revelation would say whether St. Peter's bones actually have been discovered. As for the revelation, presumably to be made by Pope Pius XII at some future date, they asked:

"When will this be? Evidently the Holy See, faithful to its method of cautious reserve and certain documentation, will await the opportune moment. No anticipation then, but confident awaiting. Without doubt, when the hour of great revelation comes, it will be most solemn and all the Christian world will hail it with renewed manifestations of faith and gratitude."

The New York Times recently reported that the bones of St. Peter were understood to have been found less than 20 feet below the main altar of the Basilica. Vatican sources unofficially called the report fantastic.

Two Jesuits who took part in explorations under the Basilica indicate in a book on their work that they found "the place where the bones (of St. Peter) became dust."

St. Francis' Arm Coming To District

The right arm of St. Francis Xavier, sacred Catholic relic, will be brought to this country Thursday and is scheduled to be exhibited her in November, according to the Catholic Review, official oragan of the archdiocese.

The relic is being brought to the United States from Japan by the League of the Sacred Heart. The arm was flown from Rome to Japan last June to mark the 400th anniversary of the saint's arrival in the latter country.

KENILWORTH CHAPEL—Architect's drawing of Our Lady of Mercy Chapel, 4617 R st. Kenilworth, Md. Construction will begin about September 19. The chapel is a mission of St. Margaret's Church, Seat Pleasant

Our Lady of Mercy Chapel Planned in Kenilworth

Construction of Our Lady of Mercy Chapel, 4617 R st., Kenilworth, Md., a mission of St. Margaret's Catholic Church, Seat Pleasant, Md., is expected to begin about September 19.

The Rev. Timothy N. MacCarthy, pastor of St. Margaret's Church, said the congregation of the chapel hopes that the new building will be completed in time for celebration of midnight mass on Christmas eve.

The chapel, of contemporary design, will be constructed of brick and slag blocks and will seat 200 persons. It was designed by Vincent Gilmore and Clayford T. Grimm.

Features of the chapel building will be a brick bell tower 35 feet high and a bay of golden polished plate glass 8 by 10 feet. The bay will be on the side of the sanctuary facing the right side of the altar.

Our Lady of Mercy Chapel was founded in 1943 by Father MacCarthy. Services since then have been held in rented quarters and in private homes of the congregation, which has grown to 300 persons. Father MacCarthy is assisted by the Rev. Michael J. Farrell.

Bible Group Told Gospel Will End Fear

Massanetta Springs, Va., Aug. 25 (AP).—A New York minister told the Massanetta Bible Conference delegates today the Christian Gospel is the only perfect antidote of fear. The day was designated Presbyterian Day.

"Fear possesses the destructive power to bring upon us the very thing that we dread," said Dr. John Sutherland Bonnell, pastor of New York City's Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church.

Dr. Bonnell said we are living in a fear-ridden world; the people of the United States are afraid of the enormous Russian Army and of the Kremlin policy; the Russians are afraid of the United States, the atomic bomb, the guided missile and the strategic bombing so frequently referred to in the press.

Millions of people, he added, project a fear of themselves upon their environment.

"They believe that what is needed is a change in their outer customs when what they really need is a change in their own hearts where fear is bred . . . Christ frees us from fear and the tyranny of past sins and gives us the liberty of the grace of God. He frees us from the dread of the future by assuring us that the future is in God's hands as has been the past."

The Bible Conference's final weekend will offer a program including addresses by Dr. Bonnell, Dr. Henry Hitt Crane of Detroit and Dr. Roy L. Smith of Chicago.

Pickets Chant As Communist Trial Goes On

New York, Aug. 26 (AP).—Chanting pickets today marked the 32-week-old conspiracy trial of 11 top Communist leaders.

Although Federal Judge Harold R. Medina has said he would not be intimidated by outside pressure, more than 100 pickets demonstrated noisily against the court's decision not to call a msitrial.

The day's trial proceeding opened with a laugh, however, when Judge Medina turned to the first witness, Edward E. Strong, and asked "How's the baby?"

The judge had recessed the trial early Thursday so Strong could go to his wife, who had just given birth to the child.

Spectators laughed and Strong, smiling broadly, said everything was fine.

Strong, a Negro defense witness, testified he is chairman of the Philadelphia County Committee of the Communist Party. He said his job was to help organize a "third party" that could achieve victory at the polls. He did not give further details about the party.

He told the court that he never heard the defendants teach or advocate the overthrow of the Government by force or violence.

The defendants are charged with conspiring to advocate such an overthrow.

Dawes at 84 Says World Needs No Advice From Him

Chicago, Aug. 26 (U.P.).—Brig. Gen. Charles Gates Dawes, former vice-president of the United States, said today on the eve of his 84th birthday that the world can get along without any advice from him.

Dawes

"I'm an old man," he said. "No one wants to hear what I have to say."

Dawes is chairman of the board of the City National Bank and Trust Co.

"After 60 a man never gets anything but ties or socks," he said. 'It seems to be a general rule."

Dawes was budget director under President Harding, Comptroller of Currency under McKinley and Vice President under Coolidge.

Dawes' health is relatively good, although he leans heavily on a cane when he walks, needs his hearing aid and has difficulty reading small print. But he can still read a bank statement.

Ship Takes On Lung in Storm For Polio Case

New York, Aug. 26 (U.P.). — A doctor and a 300-pound iron lung were transferred in hurricane-swept seas today from a Coast Guard cutter to an ocean liner to treat a passenger critially ill with polio, and a mercy plane dropped urgently needed drugs to the vessel.

The transfer was made after the cutter Coos Bay had made a 12-hour dash through the rough Atlantic to meet the New York-bound steamship Parthia, on which 21-year-old Sidney Moody, jr., son of a Plainfield (N. J.) industrialist, was stricken.

Immediately after the doctor was put aboard, he sent an urgent appeal for additional supplies of permacide, which is used in treating polio. The drug was rushed to a converted B-17 at Floyd Bennett Field, N. Y., and was dropped to the Parthia at 6:10 p. m. (EST), 600 miles off New York, the Coast Guard reported.

A spokesman for Moody's father said the last word received from the vessel indicated the boy was in critical condition.

2 More Cases Of Polio Here, 1 In Arlington

Health authorities yesterday reported three new cases of polio in the Greater Washington area, two of them in the District.

Newest cases involve a 6-year-old boy of the 6200 block of 7th st. ne., admitted to Gallinger Hospital August 21, and a 7-year-old-boy of the 1300 block of Saratoga ave. se., admitted to Children's Hospital Thursday.

Their cases boosted the Districts total for this year to 41—6 fewer than at the same time last year.

Arlington County yesterday reported its last case, a 5-year-old boy living in the 1400 block of N. Ivanhoe st. He was admitted to Children's Hospital Thursday.

Civilian Listed

The seventh person lost during the rescue operations was Robert W. Philo, a civilian technician aboard the Cochino. Philo was an employe of the Philco Corp., Philadelphia. He lived at 776 S. 18th st., Newark, N. J.

There was no official explanation of Philo's presence abroad the vessel, but new Navy ships or those with new equipment aboard often carry technical representatives of manufacturers of some of the machinery or other gear. Philco makes electronic equipment among other things, it was said.

Names of the injured men brought to Hammerfest were not immediately announced, but the Navy said the next of kin of all those lost had been notified.

Commander Benitez, a 1939 Naval Academy graduate, had a brilliant war record in Pacific actions. While executive officer of the submarine Dace, he was credited with sinking a Jap cruiser. Born in Ponce, Puerto Rico, in 1917, he lived at 22 Old Glebe rd., Arlington, while attending Georgetown the past three years on assignment from the Navy's Judge Advocate General's Office.

His ship, the Cochino, was his third submarine command. Built in 1945, it was one of the 1525-ton Balao class. With the other three submarines, it left New London, July 18, under over-all command of Capt. Roy S. Benson. Comdr. Robert K. R. Worthington, Oakmont, Pa., is the skipper of the Tusk.

Details of the disaster were lacking last night but it was reported the Cochino sank a few minutes after the rescue was accomplished. The perpetual daylight now prevailing in Arctic waters aided rescue activities materially, for the explosion occurred during the very early morning.

An AP dispatch from Oslo reported that Norwegian naval and air forces, under Maj. Gen. H. Y. Riiser-Larsen, well-known Arctic flier, met the Tusk at sea.

Britain Warned Not to Expect Cure-All sell to recover. He was also quoted as saying Britain would not get the additional Marshall Plan dollars it has requested because there were not enough dollars to meet Britain's demands.

Loan Seen Ruled Out

The United States memorandum reminded Britain that even existing aid programs are scheduled to end in 1952 and said the British program must be viewed "in the light of the need for adjustment to a declining level of United States assistance."

The memorandum appeared to rule out any possibility of another loan to Britain.

The U. S. statement left the door open for discussion of proposals to lower tariff barriers, devalue the pound and possibly a World Bank loan. It referred to the reciprocal trade program as one aspect of existing U. S. foreign economic policy, and mentioned "the institutions established at Bretton Woods." (These are the World Bank, which makes loans, and the International Monetary Fund, which passes on currency devaluation proposals.)

Monetary experts of the three nations will open "fact-finding discussions" here today to pave the way for formal talks September 7, which will bring together Secretary of State Dean Acheson, Secretary of the Treasury John W. Snyder, Hoffman, British Secretary Ernest Bevin, Chancellor of the Exchequer Sir Stafford Cripps, Lester Pearson, Canadian Minister of External Affairs, and Douglas C. Abbott, Finance Minister.

Hoffman who took off by air last night for New York and Washington after a quick tour of most of western Europe, made it bluntly clear he believes Britain's salvation lies mainly in a swift and dynamic increase in her own productive and selling enterprise.

Hoffman said devaluation of sterling is a possible stimulant that calls for British and not American action.

Hoffman told reporters Britain must mobilize five times the present number of British firms selling to the American market if dollar exports are to be tripled—600 million to 1800 million dollars. Even by this, he said, Britain would be taking only three tenths of 1 per cent of the gross American production of 254 billion dollars.

Hoffman commented: "Just 1 per cent more that sum spent on European goods and only three tenths of 1 per cent more spent on British goods and the dollar gap can be closed."

Hoffman said sharply that "one great illusion" in Europe is that the United States "needs the Marshall Plan in order tosell its surpluses."

He commented: "American surpluses can be turned to very good advantage in America if it comes to a mere matter of giving things away."

Want Evidence, He Says

The ECA chief said the American people want evidence that Europe is helping itself to recovery, and added that "if there is a litt' more head and criticism r than usual, it reflects concern—not hostility either way—on the part of the overwhelming majority of American and British citizens."

Also in London, Eugee R. Black, jr., president of the World Bank, said "there are no plans" for the bank to take a leading role in closing Britain's dollar gap.

Black revealed that Britain's Colonial Development Corporation is negotiating a 10-million-dollar loan to purchase heavy equipment. He said the loan, now approaching agreement, is the first of several.

Czechs Charge Bombing Of Non-Military Targets

Prague, Czechoslovakia, Aug. 26 (AP).—The Czechoslovak army newspaper charged tonight that U. S. and British Air Forces bombed non-military targets in Czechoslovakia during World War II in order to reduce post-war industrial competition.

The paper, Obrandu Lidu, published the charges as military and diplomatic delegations from Russia and the eastern European "peoples' democracies" gathered in Slovakia for Saturday's opening of a big three-day celebration of the fifth anniversary of the Slovak uprising against the Nazis.

Ancient City Unearthed In Arabia

Cairo, Egypt, Aug. 26 (AP).—An American explorer said today he has found a fabulous ancient city buried under the sands of Arabia.

Wendell Phillips, Concord, Calif., archeologist, said he found the remains of a great civilization near Mareb, traditional home of the Queen of Sheba.

Phillips, 27, led a University of California expedition in the region for two years.

Travelling from Aden, Arabia, on a Royal Air Force plane, Phillips related, he landed on the site of ancient Tinna, described by the Roman historian Pliny as the "city of 40 temples."

"Timna is covered by sand," he said. "However, several city walls, the gate, and ruins of temples are still visible. In the centers of the city an obelisque emerges 4 feet above the sand. Nomads living nearby dug 15 feet deep without reaching its base. Hymactic inscriptions are carved on its four faces."

Phillips described the Hymarites as people living in the area 20 or 30 centuries ago.

He described the area as an "archaeological treasure house" waiting for scientific research.

Phillips also told of finding the remains of another temple city outside Salalah, summer capital of the Sultan of Muscat and Oman. He called this one of the least explored areas in the world.

Reorganization Of Japanese Tax Structure Urged

Tokyo, Aug. 27 (Saturday) (NYHT).—Complete reorganization of the Japanese tax structure, to encourage foreign investment and stimulate domestic trade, has been recommended by the American mission here, headed by Prof. Carl S. Shoup, of Columbia University.

The recommendations, expected to become law when Parliament meets in October, include repeal of excess profits taxes and the tax on business transactions.

They reduce top rates for taxes on large income from 80 per cent to 55 per cent. They will leave the average Japanese with a tax burden of between 25 and 30 per cent of his income, as compared to slightly less than that in the United States.

Red Purge Continues

Santiago, Chile, Aug. 26 (U.P.).—Continuing its purge of Communist officials, the government announced today the dismissal of 87 additional employes, bringing the total to 415 since last week's riots and strikes officially blamed on the Communists.

Jurist Assails Court System In Virginia

Roanoke, Va., Aug. 26 (AP).—Virginia justice is not only too expensive but is also hamstrung by red tape, waste motion and obsolete methods, the State's chief justice asserted here today.

As a solution, the jurist, Judge Edward W. Hudgins, chief justice of the Virginia Supreme Court of Appeals, urged unification of the courts "and creation of a judicial administrator . . . with the Supreme Court of Appeals as directing head of the system . . ."

Hudgins spoke before a meeting of the influential Virginia Court Clerks Association observing its thirty-ninth annual convention in Roanoke.

Castigating what he termed the ultraconservatism of the Virginia bench and bar, the judge said the present judicial system, patterned after eighteenth century English courts, "is not designed to fill the need of modern business demands or to solve modern social problems."

The increasing problems of juvenile delinquency and domestic quarrels, the difficulty of assuring a fair trial under the present concept of "due process," and the cost of appeal are among prime difficulties which must be resolved, he said.

U. S. Churches Add 2,190,164 Members

More than two million persons last year were added to membership rolls of American churches, according to the September issue of the Christian Herald.

In its annual report on the state of the church, the magazine said that an increase of 2,190,164 members of the Protestant and non-Protestant faiths in the United States puts church membership at an all-time high.

Dr. Samuel McCrea Cavert, general secretary of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America, also reported last month that church membership in the United States was the largest in history. The Federal Council report was based on 1947 figures, the Christian Herald report was on 1948 statistics.

Total strength of all religious bodies stands at 79,576,352, or 53.3 per cent of the nation's population, the magazine reported.

Relative strength of Protestant and non-Protestant bodies is virtually unchanged since last year, the article said. The Nation's church-goers are about 60 per cent Protestant, 33 per cent Roman Catholic, 6 per cent Jewish and 1 per cent divided among such groups as Russian and Greek Orthodox, Buddhists and others.

Protestantism's 222 denominations have a total of 47,557,203 members, a gain of 1,407,527 members during 1948. The Roman Catholic Church has a total of 26,075,697 communicants, a gain of 807,524 during 1948.

(The 1949 Catholic directory lists 1948 membership in the church as 26,718,343 in the United States, Alaska and Hawaii.)

The Christian Herald pointed out that the three general definitions of church membership used by churches in reporting membership are:

1. All persons in the cultural, racial or nationality group served, used generally by Jewish Orthodox and Eastern Orthodox congregations.

2. All baptized persons of every age, used by the Roman and Old Catholics, the Protestant Episcopal, and most Lutheran bodies.

3. Persons who have come into full membership; adults only, used by most other Protestant groups.

Greatest membership gain was made by the Disciples of Christ, which increased 9 per cent. Other churches with large gains were: Presbyterian U. S. A. (Northern), 4.2 per cent; Presbyterian U. S. (Southern), 3.9 per cent; Missouri Synod Lutheran and Southern Baptists, both 3.5 per cent; Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints (Mormons), 3.4 per cent; Roman Catholics, 3.1 per cent, and Protestant Episcopal, 3 per cent.

The magazine said the following 11 Protestant denominations with membership of over one million include 73 per cent of all Protestants.

The girl's mother, Mrs. Eleanor Taylor, charged specifically that her daughter was unable to take four courses at the Negro school, available in the white Washington-Lee High School.

The suit was originally filed against the former county school board and School Superintendent Fletcher Kemp, but the new board and Superintendent William A. Early are now defendants.

Public Housing To Sell Units At Indian Head

By The Associated Press

A Public Housing Administration spokesman said yesterday the agency is just about ready to sell the 483-unit housing development at Indian Head, Md., to the Potomac Heights Mutual Owners Association.

He disclosed negotiations have nearly reached the stage at which the Administration is willing to reserve the project, near the Naval Powder Factory, for the cooperative.

In case 65 per cent of the units then are sold within 90 days, he added, a final contract will be agreed upon.

Some 250 tenants yesterday asked the Senate and House Banking Committees to block the transaction. The sales plan calls for a total price of $600,000, with unit prices ranging from $932 for one-bedroom units to $1,553 for three-bedroom units.

Mission Set At Cathedral By Rev. Green

The Rev. Bryan Green of Birmingham, England, will conduct a preaching mission at the Washington Cathedral November 13 through 20.

Mr. Green was invited to conduct the mission among the 90 parishes and congregations in the diocese by the Right Rev. Angus Dun, Episcopal Bishop of Washington. A similar mission conducted by Mr. Green in New York City at the Cathedral of St. John the Divine last year drew crowds estimated at over 40,000 persons.

The Rev. Harold Bend Sedgwick, rector of St. Thomas' Episcopal Church, 1772 Church st. nw., is chairman of a committee arranging prayer groups and meetings for young people.

For the mission, the Cathedral is being wired for sound so the missioner can be heard in every chapel, in the crypt and corridors. St. Alban's church, on the cathedral grounds, is also being wired so over-flow crowds can hear the services there.

Mr. Green has been conducting missions since he was 19. His first was in London, before he was ordained, and since then he has lectured widely throughout the British Isles. He is now rector of St. Martin's Church at Birmingham.

For five weeks preceding the mission by Mr. Green in Washington a mission will be conducted in churches of the Southern Convocation of the Diocese by the Rev. Robert C. Smith of the Society of St. John the Evangelist. The mission will begin October 9 and end November 13.

Father Smith will spend a week in each of five different Southern Maryland centers, holding services Monday through Friday evenings. The Rev. Howard S. Arnold of St. Barnabas Church, Leeland, Md., is chairman of the committee arranging for the mission.

Decision Eases Rule For Silicosis Victims

Richmond, Va., Aug. 26 (AP).—The State Industrial Commission has handed down a decision which, in effect, will make it easier for a victim of silicosis to obtain compensation benefits.

W. L. Robison, chief claims' examiner for the commission, said today the decision removes one of the greatest restrictions to compensation awards to victims of the occupational disease.

It will make it possible, he explained, for claimants to receive awards without proving they did not have the disease prior to July 1, 1941.

During the two weeks there will be report breakfasts each day for ministers and visiting evangelists. Midday services for those who work downtown will be held at New York Avenue Presbyterian Church, 1301 New York ave. nw.

This Morning

With Shirley Povich

THOSE SERIALIZED "revelations" by a New York newspaper that major league baseball games are the medium of big betting don't quite deserve the expose-treatment the authors are sweating to give it. The articles are startling only in the sense that they are appearing at this late date.

Any day now, the same writers can be expected to disclose that the automobile has replaced the horse, or the flying machine is here to stay. It would be just as sensational a series. Sure, there is big betting on ball games, and bets are funneled to the big syndicates and millions of dollars change hands every day on the results. But that has been going on for years.

POVICH

And the attempts to sensationalize the series with exposures of attempts to fix games have been pretty feeble. Of the two "fix" attempts cited, one was authored by the inmate of a nut house and the other was an unsigned telegram to Manager Eddie Dyer of the Cardinals, asking him to win a game because a $5000 bet was riding on it.

You don't fix a game by asking a manager to win it for you. You fix it by arranging with him to lose it. Anyway, baseball is helpless to stamp out betting on games. It can only alert itself to protecting baseball against fixers.

THE CURRENT series dealing with betting on games hauls in all the nuances to give the impression that a new and dangerous situation has developed. It points out that teams have now barred from the dressing room and dugouts all characters not associated with the clubs, and that the league presidents have ordered posted in the dressing rooms bulletins reminding players of the penalty of life-bans for betting on games.

Those bulletins are in the clubhouses all right, but they've been there for 10 years. And for several years, also, the teams have been cautioned to keep strangers away from their players. There is nothing new in those measures. Shortly after he took office in 1945, Commissioner Chandler hired a dozen former FBI men to check on the activities of both players and gamblers.

The two cases of "fixed" games that were turned up since the Black Sox scandal of 1919 were both in the minor leagues which Chandler's men cannot as closely supervise. There has been no hint that gamblers have ever "gotten to" or attempted to fix a big league game in the last 30 years.

THE NATURE of baseball is such that there is no "sure thing" fix of a ball game unless sufficient players are bribed. No one player has as much control of a game as the quarterback in football. And the last groups to attempt any fixes are the big syndicates that handle the bets and make such handsome profits from their bookmaking.

If any betting scandal develops, the men baseball has to fear are not the bookmaking syndicates but the sharpshooting individual gamblers who are trying to win a surething bet. Baseball bookmaking has become so profitable that in Washington many a bookie has abandoned his horse-racing play to specialize his business on baseball bets.

"The bookies are the last persons who want a betting scandal," says Washington's No. 1 betting commissioner. "Our racket is too good. We make the prices and get a winning percentage no matter what team wins. As long as the game is honest, our business is good. If a betting scandal comes up, and there's a lack of public confidence in the game, our business is shot."

THE SAME price-making tycoon declared with some pride," the big bookmaking syndicates take more profits out of baseball than some of the club owners. They've got a bigger stake in the game than some owners, and they are eager to protect it from scandal. They have too much to lose to try any funny business that would kill their racket. Chandler's office knows who the reputable bookies are."

Betting on baseball has burgeoned tremendously in recent years and in volume now compares with off-the-track horse betting. The bookies find baseball betting a cleaner business, and more steady. "Horse players go broke too often, reaching for thos 8, 10, and 20-1 shots," Mr. Bookie explains. "The baseball play is more constant.

"The man who bets on a ball game rarely is trying to click with anything more than a 2-to-1 shot. He wins a pretty good share of his bets, and isn't wiped out like the horse player. And it's a nicer element to do business with. Baseball bettors are nicer people then horse fans, and they're pretty well convinced no baseball game is a boat race."

By Bill Burnett
Post Reporter

Los Angeles, Calif., Aug. 26—Howie Livingston purloined a pass from Jim Hardy and raced 34 yards tonight to give the Washington Redskins a 34-28 victory over the Los Angeles Rams before 64,227 fans at Memorial Coliseum.

Dan Sandifer, Louisana State flash, led Washington's scoring with three touchdowns, one a 94-yard kickoff return, as the 'Skins opened the five-game exhibition tour which caps three weeks of training at Occidental college.

FIRST QUARTER

Washington won the toss and elected to receive, defending the west goal.

Saenz took Hubbell's kick on the 6-yard line and carried it back to the 33. In three plays the Redskins picked up a first down on Quirk's plunge to the Redskin 46, but after two fumbles by Baugh the Skins' Poillon kicked out of bounds on the Ram 12.

The Rams picked up 13 yards on their first offensive play but were forced to kick out after two Waterfield passes were wide. Saenz returned mere 4 yards to the Redskin 36, but from there the Washington forces marched the 64 yards to a touchdown.

Another Quirk smash at the center was good for 8 yards and a first down on the Redskin 49. Baugh flipped a long pass down the middle to Sandifer, who chalked up a 32-yard gain with a leaping catch.

From the 6 Goode picked up a yard and the Baugh-Sandifer combination did the rest. Sandifer was speeding far to the left in the end zone as he took Baugh's offering a second before stepping out. Poillon converted to give the 'Skins a 7-0 lead.

SECOND QUARTER

Clark Shaughnessy's boys moved on Waterfield passes into Redskin territory as the second period opened but they stalled at the 42. At that point Redskin Center Clyde Ehrhardt grabbed a Waterfield toss and moved up to the 'Skin 43 with it.

Baugh, who had completed his first seven passes, finally missed one that was a cinch to give Washington a 14-0 lead. Sandifer was far in the clear as he looked back for Sammy's toss. It was a foot or so too long, however.

On the next play Los Angeles tied the score. The Redskins sent Jack Kirby at the middle of the line and the ball squirted from his fingers. Elroy (Crazy Legs) Hirsch grabbed it at the 43-yard line and ripped through massed players to score without a hand on him. Waterfield converted.

It was Hirsch, again, whose pass interception opened the Rams second scoring match. He took Baugh's toss to midfield and after an assortment of eight plays Waterfield fired a perfect 9-yard strike at Agler as he went into the end zone. Waterfield again converted, and the Rams led, 14-0 at halftime.

THIRD QUARTER

Both teams scored in the first two minutes of the second half. The Rams boosted their lead to a 21-7 on the third offensive play when V. T. Smith took the ball on a delayed line buck, danced through a truck-sized hole in right guard and dashed 65 yards into the end zone. Waterfield added his third extra point.

On the following kickoff Washington got all but one of these points back. Sandifer took Finlay's kick on his own six and aimed for his left sideline. At the 30 he spurted without breaking stride through a host of players and from there to the end of his 94-yard touchdown run he had only Hubbell chasing him. It was no contest. Poillon's placement was low and the 'Skins trailed 21-13.

The next time Washington got the ball a rookie backfield went 70 yards in seven plays to cut their deficit to 21-20. Harry Gilmer passed 19 yards to Dowda and 19 more to Peebles, then turned the final punch over to Sandifer from 11 yards out. He felt his way over and Poillon converted.

Once more the teams swapped scores before the period ended. A 22-yard play, with Waterfield passing to Fears and the latter lateralling to Shaw gave the Rams another comfortable margin, but back bounced the 'Skins. On the end of a 76-yard drive Goode went over from one yard out on the fourth down.

FOURTH QUARTER

Eight minutes remained when the Redskins jumped back into the lead. A Tribe advance to the Ram 28 fizzled and Bob Hainlen kicked out on the 21.

Jim Hardy's first pass was aimed at Shaw but was stolen from that worthy by Howie Livingston at the Ram 34. Beautiful blocking and some fancy stepping by Livingston, who is supposed to have a weak knee, gave the 'skins a 33-28 margin and Poillon made it 34-28 with another placement.

Dark's Single Beats Reds in Ninth, 3-2

Boston, Aug. 26 (AP).—Al Dark's two-out single in the ninth drove in a pair of runs that gave the Boston Braves a 3-2 victory over the Cincinnati Reds tonight before a 12,426 crowd. That frame was the only troublesome spot Johnny Vander Meer, the Reds' veteran lefthander, encountered while totaling eight strike-outs and giving up as many hits.

Giants Finally Beat Staley, Top Cards, 4-2

New York, Aug. 26 (AP).—The New York Giants finally caught up to one of their big tormentors today, when they shelled Gerry Staley from the mound and beat the St. Louis Cardinals, 4-2.

Staley, before today, had hurled 37 innings against the Giants and had permitted but two runs. Of his eight triumphs four had been chalked up against Leo Durocher's operatives.

The game was enlivened by a second inning argument in which Durocher, Coach Fred Fitzimmons, Wes Westrum and Hank Behrman were ejected from the park. The original argument was between Umpire Lou Jorda and Fitzimmons when Jorda called Joe Lafata out on an attempted steal of second base.

Fitzimmons was ejected first, then the other Giants when they took up the argument.

New Yorkers Yield, 5-3, On Benton's Seven-Hitter

Cleveland, Aug. 26 (AP).—The Indians knocked the league-leading Yankees to within 1½ games of Boston's Red Sox tonight, defeating New York, 5 to 3. Manager Lou Boudreau and Left Fielder Dale Mitchell accounted for four Cleveland runs by belting singles with the bases loaded.

For the first seven innings he held the Yanks to three scratch hits off Third Baseman Kenny Keltner's glove. One of those was by Joe DiMaggio and it punched home a run in the first inning.

But boudreau's two-run single came up in the next frame, and Joe Gordon belted his eighteenth home run in the fifth.

Again in the sixth, Raschi got in trouble. He walked Keltner and let Jim Hegan double, sending Keltner to third. Boudreau was walked intentionally to fill the bases. Then Mitchell's single sent home two more runs.

A crowd of 49,194 watched the Yankees try to get a rally started in the ninth. Bobby Brown's single over Gordon's head sent Tommy Henrich to third.

Then after Johnny Mize flied out, Charley Keller, batting for Catcher Silvera, flied to Larry Doby in center, scoring Henrich. Cliff Mapes ended the game as a pinch hitter for Raschi by fouling out to Hegan.

The Yankees scored their other run in the eighth. Gene Woodling hit into a double play and Gerry Coleman scampered home.

Parnell Wins 20th; Williams Clouts Two

Chicago, Aug. 26 (AP).—Ta Boston Red Sox powered 33 hits, nine for ...ra bases, to sweep a double-header from the Chicago White Sox, 11-4 and 10-7, before 19,647 persons today.

Mel Parnell became the first major league pitcher to win 20 games as he yielded seven hits in the opener. Ted Williams smashed his thirty-first and thirty-second home runs. This left Ted one behind Teammate Vern Stephens in the homer derby.

In the second game Bob Kuzava, Chicago pitcher, tied an American League record with six straight strikeouts. Six American Leaguers share the mark, matched last ... Cleveland's Bob Feller in 1938.

Later Kuzava was kayoed by a line drive off the bat of Al Zarilla. He was taken to Mercy Hospital with bruised ribs on his left side.

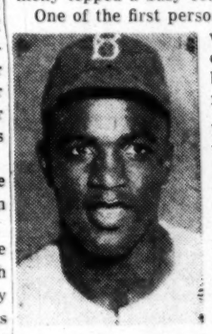
By JACKIE ROBINSON
(As told to ED REID)

COLONEL BATES showed up at my court-martial and proved himself one of the best friends I had in the world. His testimony topped a busy couple of weeks, I'll tell you that.

One of the first persons who came to my assistance was the girl who rode on the bus with me—the innocent cause of all my trouble. She told her husband all about it and they both came to me and asked me to write to the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and all the newspapers.



Robinson

I was burning mad, though. I said, "Nuts, if that's what they want to do to me, well, okay."

I refused to make any complaint to any one. But I reckoned without my friends. The girl and her husband wrote to one of the Pittsburgh newspapers and they wired the camp for all the facts in the case.

Slowly the picture began to change in the few days left before the court-martial.

The captain, who was the chief complainant against me, apparently got a little worried about things. The first thing I knew, the charges against me were completely changed. They wound up as insubordination and willful disobedience. I could only be fined on these charges.

WHEN the trial opened at Camp Hood I was assigned a defense counsel. He was a white man from the South. To my great and thankful admiration this man came to me and said he didn't think he would be able to do a fair job for me. It was a completely honest statement, but I must say that his biggest feeling must have been one of self-consciousness born of a sort of inbred bigotry that even reason could not erase.

I must say that I was wholly grateful to him, for he brought in another officer to act as my lawyer.

This fellow really tied the captain up in knots on the witness stand. The colonel came through for me 100 per cent. He gave such good references that the officer in charge of the court-martial board objected to his testimony. He said the colonel was prejudiced in my behalf! As indeed he was.

My attorney really fouled the captain up on cross-examination despite what looked like careful rehearsing between the MPs and the complaining officer.

Anyhow, the result was that I was completely cleared of all charges and marched out of that room a much happier man.

Because of my ankle I never did get to go overseas. When I got out of the hospital my outfit had left the camp and I applied for my release from the Army. I was discharged two months later in the winter of 1944, after two and a half years in service.

WHEN I came home I found a wire from the president of Sam Houston College asking me to take over the basketball coaching job at the college. I decided to do what I could and accepted the job. I found that about 35 of the 300 students at the college were boys and only about seven of these came out for basketball. Despite this enormous handicap I developed a pretty good team and once we beat the team in our league that had won a championship.

I stayed until February, 1945, and then got an offer from the Kansas City Monarchs to play baseball for $400 a month.

Do you remember that I told you a chance puff of wind got me into the major leagues? Well, it happened at Camp Breckenridge, Kentucky, during my service in the Army. I was walking on the camp recreation field.

A baseball arched high into the sky and was carried in my direction by a strong breeze. It bounced and rolled in my direction. I picked it up and threw it to one of the players. I remember that it was rather a light ball. It belonged to a fellow who pitched with the Kansas City Monarchs in the Negro-American League.

He suggested that I write to the team and offer my services. I did just that and they checked on me and wrote back, offering me $300 a month to play ball with them. I told them I wouldn't leave home for less than $400 and they said okay. I joined the club in April, 1945. I figured I needed contacts in the East if I was to get into boys' club work.

I PLAYED through the 1945 season with that club. I had a pretty good season, but in September of that year I was told by the management that I had to go on a barnstorming tour. I did not like this at all.

The tour would be after the regular season and I would be paid on a percentage basis. I told them I did not want to make the tour with them and they told me I had to or else.

Now this was a situation that might be described as humorous

Special to The Post

Detroit, Aug. 26.—Ted Gray, a spidery little southpaw, shackled the Nats on 6 singles and rode to his eighth victory by an easy 11-1 margin today.

The Washington defeat was the second straight at the hands of the Tigers who poled out 18 hits, including three home runs, off Sid Hudson, Dick Welteroth and Enrique Gonzales.

The Nats scored their only run in the 7th when Johnny Simmons and Sam Mele put together singles and Simmons came across on fly-ball by Eddie Robinson.

Hudson was no puzzle to the Tigers in the three frames he worked. Exactly 20 batters faced him over that span. Ten of them hit him safely, six scored, one walked and another was thrown out at the plate.

Braganca Wins Feature At Bel Air

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

Bel Air, Md., Aug. 26.—Braganca, owned and trained by former jockey Henry Romaine, was up in a driving finish to win the featured Watervale purse here today.

The 4-year-old gelding, winner of his previous outing while in cheaper company, scored by a head margin over Mrs. E. G. Boyce's Audible with Miss M. D. Weitzel's Hoseah third in the field of seven.

Braganca, in making it four wins in 14 tries this year, was not strongly backed and returned a $15.20 mutuel in contrast to his role of favorite for his first victory at this point.

McDermott Rides Winner

Apprentice Jimmy McDermott, who has come into his own at this meeting, was aboard the winner and stepped him the mile and a sixteenth in creditable time of 1:46 over a fast track and under clear skies.

Audible went to the front early and set a steady pace under the handling of Apprentice Dick Lawless. Braganca moved to Audible on the outside entering the stretch and the pair fought it out right to the wire. Hoseah and Puritan made mild bids on the outside but were not closing ground on the front pair at the end.

Double Pays $88.40

The daily double paid $88.40, the shortest pay-off displayed after Yes She Will won the first race under a hustling ride by Jockey Patsy Grant. The winner paid $24. The second race went to R. E. Caldwell's Vitacle and the 10 year-old mare was a popular winner, having been backed down to a $4.60 favorite.

Bill Sidwell Carries Ted To 5 Sets

Forest Hills, N. Y., Aug. 26 (U.P.).—Richard (Pancho) Gonzales and Slamming Ted Schroeder, two clouting Californians with a sizzling service, gave the United States a 2-to-0 lead over Australia today to virtually clinch America's defense of the famed Davis Cup.

Schroeder, bull-shouldered Wimbledon champion from La Crescenta, Calif., won the first singles match by staging one of his usual comebacks to down Aussie Billy Sidwell, 6—1, 5—7, 4—6, 6—2, 6—3 before 8000 spectators at the West Side Tennis Club.

Gonzales, the swarthy national amateur king from Los Angeles, overpowered blond Frank Sedgman, 21-year-old star from down under, 8—6, 6—4, 9—7.

Thus with only three points remaining in tomorrow's lone doubles match and Sunday's two singles, Australian hopes were practically gone of regaining the huge silver International Tennis Bowl which the United States won back from them in 1946.

Veteran John Bromwich will team with Sidwell in the doubles in an attempt to keep the Aussies alive. They will face Gardnar Mulloy of Coral Gables, Fla., and Billy Talbert of New York, four-time United States national doubles champions. Sunday's closing singles pit Schroeder against Sedgman and and Gonzales against Sidwell.

Dover, England, (Saturday) Aug. 27 (AP).—Mrs. Willi Croes van Rijsel, young Dutch housewife, gave up her attempt to swim the English Channel at 12:30 a.m. today, (7:30 p.m. Friday, EST).

Mrs. Van Rijsel's decision was relayed by a reporter for the Dover Express who was aboad the boat accompanying her across the Channel. There was no immediate word where she intended to land on the English coast.

A heavy fog had settled down over the Channel 30 minutes before Mrs. Van Rijsel gave up her attempt.

Mrs. Van Rijsel had been in the water for 17 hours and 4 minutes when she abandoned her attempt, the second this season.

Before the fog settled down, the young Dutch woman was reported only 4 miles short of her goal. However, a strong current appeared to be carrying her toward Folkestone, west of Dover.

Major Leaguers Vote on Repeal Of Bonus Rule

Cincinnati, Aug. 26 (AP).—Major league club owners are voting on a resolution to repeal the bonus player rule, Walter Mulbry, secretary of baseball, announced today.

Repeal, however, would not affect present bonus players until December 4, 1952.

Mulbry said a vote on the proposal also will be taken among the more than 400 minor league clubs by George M. Trautman, president of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues. It will not be asked, however, until the result of the big leagues' vote is known.

The bonus rule provides if a player is paid more than $6,000 to sign with a major league club, he may be optioned to the minors for one year only. After th he must be waived out of the league in order to be sent down.

Bettie Roland Defends Title

Two individual champions, Lew Hedges and Bettie Roland, both of the Takoma Park team, and a pair of championship relay foursomes will defend titles at Takoma Park pool Monday night where the last eight of the District of Columbia AAU senior outdoor swim titles will be at stake.

Hedges is defending in the men's 100-yard backstroke, while Miss Roland, 1948 winner of the free-style breaststroke and backstroke crowns, will seek to retain the breaststroke and one other diadem.

Under the AAU rules she is prohibited competing in all three events because she already has gained two titles this summer and a swimmer is limited to four championships in a single season.

The Takoma men's relay team, which set the 400-yard freestyle record of 4:00.3 in 1948, will be on hand, although only two of last year's quartet, Hedges and Bill Keim, are available.

Ambassador's record-holding girls' 200-yard relay team also will be on hand in quest of a third consecutive championship. Coach Bill Armstrong has the same team that won District honors last year, plus a strong second aggregation.

ROBINSON—From P. 10

Jackie Robinson Cleared In Army Court-Martial

since I had had an offer from Mr. Rickey to join the Montreal Baseball Club, the gateway to the major leagues. It was like being led to the gallows with a reprieve in your pocket which you were ready to wave in the face of the hangman at the last, gratifying moment.

To make a long situation short, I agreed to go with Montreal. Late in 1945 I went to the Montreal ball club offices, where the announcement of my signing was going to be made by Branch Rickey jr..

I remember that I was living with Rachel on DeGaspe st. in Montreal. The day that the announcement was going to be made was bright and sunny, but I had a sense of foreboding as we started off for the offices of the ball club. I knew that no one had an inkling of what the announcement would be. All the morning papers carried was some paragraphs to the effect that an announcement was going to be made that would shake the baseball world. Imagine that!

I was worried stiff!

Helen Sigel, Peg Kirk Gain Western Finals

Chicago, Aug. 26 (AP).—Helen Siegel of Philadelphia and Peg Kirk of Findlay, Ohio, two close friends, clash tomorrow for the women's western amateur golf championship.

The 29-year-old Miss Siegel, who defeated Miss Kirk 5-4 in the women's national quarterfinals last year, moved through today's semi-finals with a 2-1 win over Mary Agnes Wall of Menominee, Mich.

Miss Kirk, the 27-year-old Ohio State champion and National Titile-holders' winner at Augusta last Spring, trimmed Polly Riley of Fort Worth, Tex., 4-2.

"I'll shellack her tomorrow," laughed the Philadelphian, whose clubhouse antics keep the other girls in stiches. "That Kirk will be a push over."

All this was taken in good grace by the affable Peggy, the medalist with a Westmoreland course record of 73, 3 under par. Miss Kirk is competing in her seventh Western Amateur. The farthest she advanced before was through the first round in 1943.

Miss Sigel, out in 1-over 39, grabbed a 2-up edge over Miss Wall at the turn today. Miss Wall, who has reached the semifinals of the Western Amateur five times but has never won, cut the margin to 1 up at the 205-yard thirteenth with a regulation 3. But Miss Sigel won the next with a 4 when a trap cost her opponent a 5.

They halved the next three holes with a pair of pars and a birdie as the bout concluded on the seventeenth. Miss Sigel was 3 over the standard for the route, while Miss Wall was 5 over.

Miss Kirk, who has steered even with par throughout the tournament, was only 1 over for 16 holes in disposing of Miss Riley, the 1948 runner-up. The little Texan, 4 down at the turn after carding a 42 to her rival's 38, won only one hole. She parred the 370-yard fourteenth while Miss Kirk overshot the green and needed 5.

The match closed spectacularly on the sixteenth when Miss Kirk dropped a 14-foot putt for a birdie win.

D. C. Skipper Places Twice

Baltimore, Aug. 26 (AP).—James Hendrickson of the Sandusky (Ohio) Yacht Club celebrated his election as president of the National Thistle Association by winning both of today's races in competition for the National championship at Middle River.

Skippers from the Great Lakes region dominated the events as stiff southerly and southwesterly winds enlivened the racing for the 35 competing thistled.

Sandy Douglas, the defending titlist from the Vermilion (Ohio) Yacht Club, sailed Paukie in third in the morning brush and second in the afternoon race.

In the afternoon, Dr. Lawson placed third while A. M. Herrmann of the Racine (Wisc.,) Yacht Club took fourth in Sticker.

Douglas was leading for the title with 100 points, based on his two seconds and a third. Hendrickson, ninth yesterday, had 96½ points for second place. Dr. Lawson was in third with 96 points, on the basis of his two fourths and a third.

Yesterday's winner, Frank Marquardt of the Columbia Yacht Club, fell to seventh in the morning brush and seventeenth in the afternoon to gain 82¼ points for sixth place behind Herrmann with 87 and Barnett with 85.

The final race in the series will be staged tomorrow.

Dodger Protest Of Brave Loss Denied by Frick

New York, Aug. 26 (AP).—Ford Frick, National League president, today turned down the protest of the Brooklyn club concerning a game played with the Boston Braves at Ebbits Field August 12.

The protest involved a decision by Umpire Arthur Gore in the eighth inning, with Boston leading 5 to 3. With one out, Dodger Outfielder Duke Snider hit the ball off the centerfield screen, and Gore signaled that it was a home run.

Boston protested that under the ground rules the ball was in play, and Gore changed his ruling, sending the runner back to third base. No more runs were scored, Boston winning the game, 5 to 3.

The Dodgers protested that Snider was slowed down by Gore's home run signal, and because of the umpire's error was deprived of a home run.

One on the Aisle—

A Gaunt 'Season' Is Facing Legits

By Richard L. Coe

ONE OF THE NICE things about the National being closed is that somebody is spared the headache of what stage plays would be used to fill it.

Because at the moment there are 13 stage plays in New York, nine on the road and three in rehearsal. And those three are road companies, or, in the case of the Chicago-bound "Death of a Salesman," a duplicate of a Gotham original.

Traditionally, this is the time of year when things are starting to hum in New York for the next season. September's approach finds the traditional hum reduced to a whimper.

Across the land there are considerably less than 200 legitimate theaters, of which around 40 are in New York's midtown. Managers of these "road" theaters are decidedly concerned about next season's operations. Costs are at an all-time high, the producers are wary and the men who manage the road's houses see plenty of dark weeks ahead.

One possible solution is reported by Variety's Hobe Morrison, who says that managers of the road's theaters are exploring the notion of producing their own plays on a cooperative set-up. Such ventures might include musical revivals, modestly budgeted replicas of recent Gotham hits and revivals of former successes.

Logically interested in such an enterprise would be managers of theaters in Cleveland, Minneapolis, Columbus, St. Louis, Detroit, Kansas City and of Baltimore's non-segregated Maryland Theater, which already has contracted several package shows that have toured the citronella circuit this summer.

Another source for new plays might lie in the summer theater tryouts that remain on the citronella circuit, of which some 15 anxious premieres might lead to longer lives.

"Charm" Starts Rumors

Even the success of the "Charm" revival out at Olney by General Manager Richard Skinner has been eyed as possible new season material by the magnates anxious to pay the bills for their otherwise white elephants. New York sent several observers down to take in the belly-laughs "Charm" drew out at Olney, and Skinner has been discussing the matter this week.

The delight with which audiences received "Charm's" amusing corn last week is a perfect example of the troubles faced by the producers. To put it on would cost considerably more than last month's grocery bills and its chances of getting by the first-night gauntlet of Manhattan sophisticates are slim. I'm convinced if you could get people in to see it, they'd all get refreshing laughs from the piece, but if you're not familiar with Gotham first nighters, you can get an idea of what they're like by sitting in Arlington Cemetery some midnight. On the less sophisticated road, bigger names than Olney's excellent company would be needed for bait. At least that's the theory.

That matters will improve there is no doubt, for there are a few interesting plans afoot for fall production. Considering the numbers of people across the land who are willing to plank down money to see a good show and the inability of the New York managerial setup to cope with the demand, the fabulous invalid seems to need new doctors.

But down here in our cozy Capital we're all too civilized to have such worries as finding plays to fill a theater. We just turn it over to the flicks.

"GOING NATIVE" is going nicely at the Capitol . . . In yesterday's review I unintentionally omitted mention of one of the liveliest of the performers, Doris Potts, who does a scintillating hula and has a mighty shiny stage presence . . . Offstage, MC Sam Jack Kaufman explains, Doris is a medical center lass, which certainly must liven up some doctor's office . . . That "Frustrated Thespian" who warns you at the beginning of the show that it's not going to be any good turns out to be Maestro Kaufman, who insisted that his role in Gene Ford's show go on on opening day, though he had a galloping temperature at the time.

"HOME OF THE BRAVE" is in its final few days at the Trans Lux, with "Reign of Terror" set to open Thursday . . . Which means that the T-L will be having two previews of the Robert Cummings-Arlene Dahl adventure Wednesday night between the final showings of the present laudable tenant.

AMERICAN UNIVERSITY'S drama group will present Thornton Wilder's "Our Town" in an open-air, "arena" staging Monday through Thursday nights on the lawn in front of Clendenen Gymnasium . . . Opening night seats are sold out, but reservations for the other performances may be made at WOodley 9838 or 9887.

Movies Called Most Immoral In Years by Legion of Decency

Chicago, Aug. 26 (U.P.)—Postwar movies are the most immoral in 15 years, the executive secretary of the Roman Catholic National Legion of Decency charged today.

The Rev. Patrick J. Masterson asked motion picture executives to clean up their films and indirectly appealed to popular movie stars to cease flouting "the laws of God and man" in their private lives.

Among the films which Masterson said the Legion "condemned" were "Black Narcissus," "Forever Amber," and two sex hygiene films, "Mon and Dad," and "Sins of the Fathers." He said "Devil in the Flesh," a recent French movie, was one of the worst pictures on the condemned list.

In a speech for delivery before the convention of the International Federation of Catholic Alumnae, the Rev. Masterson charged that 25 per cent of the motion pictures viewed by the Legion since last November contained "morally offensive material."

In addition, Masterson said, "the kind and degree of offensiveness," as well as the amount, "have increased to a marked degree."

He ascribed current immorality in movies partly to the influx of foreign films, more than half of which were found "objectionable," since last November. He said the Legion's rejection of domestic films also was at an all-time high of 20 per cent.

The leading offense, Masterson said, is "suggestiveness."

The Legion, he said, "condemns salaciousness—any appeal to the lower instincts of an audience—such as might be made by protracted and lustful intimacies between sexes and disrobing scenes or by other suggestive sequences."

Petition for Feldman Restoration Withdrawn At Request of General

A petition urging that Maj. Gen. Herman Feldman be restored to duty as the Army's Quartermaster General was withdrawn yesterday at the suggestion of the general himself.

More than 700 civilian employes in the quartermaster offices here had signed the petition, which had started spontaneously in the supply division. Then Feldman, who has been suspended in connection with the 5-percenter investigation, heard about it and wrote this memo to quartermaster civilians:

"I understand that a petition to the Secretary of the Army is being circulated by many of the civilian employes of the Quartermaster Corps in behalf of my reinstatement as Quartermaster General. Needless to say, this spontaneous demonstration of confidence by those with whom I have worked so closely is a source of deep satisfaction to me, for it indicates that my actions have been appreciated and understood.

"I believe, however, that your petition should be withdrawn. We can all have full confidence in the fairness of the action which the Department of the Army will take upon completion of its investigation, and I am certain that there is nothing in my record to preclude me from resuming my duties as the Quartermaster General."

The petition had said, in part, that the employes were "united in their belief in the honesty and integrity" of the general and in his loyalty. It said that their confidence in the general's proper performance of his duties had "never been shaken."

RETIREMENT: An agreement has been reached by Senate-House conferees on a new bill that will provide larger Civil Service pensions to most employes who are retired.

Under the present law, a married man who is retired may provide a survivorship annuity for his wife by accepting a reduction of 10 per cent in his lifetime pension.

Under the conference agreement—which seems sure to be enacted into law—the reduction would be only 5 per cent on those annuities under $1500 a year. The 10 per cent discount would be continued only on that part of the annuity over $1500.

In other words, the report would mean larger pensions for all classes of employes who retire and who take advantage of the survivorship option. A man, for example, who would draw a $3000 annuity could assure his wife a lifetime pension by taking a deduction of 5 per cent on the first $1500, and 10 per cent on all over it—another $1500.

The present law restricts survivorship pensions to wives. The report would extend it to the husbands of working wives. After all, the working girls must pay the same percentage of their salaries into the retirement fund.

The report would become law the date it is approved by the President. It would not be retroactive. People who are planning to retire would be wise to wait for a month to see if it is enacted. It would pay them to wait if the report is approved.

CIVIL SERVICE: Officials of the National Civil Service League yesterday called on President Truman to appoint a strong and competent chairman of the Civil Service Commission.

After their visit, Winston Paul and James R. Watson said the President was sympathetic toward their objective. They also complimented the President on his order that will bring about the reduction of 135,000 civilians in the military agencies, and they urged that similar economies be applied to other agencies.

The President gave his visitors no hint of whom he plans to appoint to succeed Harry B. Mitchell, who has reached the mandatory retirement age. The league officers did not indorse any individual for the post.

They emphasized that the league will do what it can to help the Civil Service Commission. The league, they said, is not campaigning against the commission; their desire is to make the commission stronger and more effective.

Action Seen On District Teachers' Leave Bill

Abernathy Declares Truman Will Get Legislation Prior To Adjournment

Representative Thomas G. Abernathy (D., Miss.) yesterday asserted that the District teachers' sick leave bill "definitely" will be sent to the President before Congress adjourns this year.

The measure has been in conference between the Senate and House since July 15 where differences between two house bills must be ironed out before final Congressional approval.

The Senate version increased the total of cumulative paid sick leave from 60 to 90 days—the only point of conflict with the House. Both branches approved the plan for one day a month sick leave with pay and up to 20 days' retroactive leave.

Abernathy, chairman of the House conferees, said he did not anticipate any difficulty reaching a compromise with the Senate group, headed by Senator Margaret Chase Smith (R., Me.).

He said he would seek a conference meeting on the measure directly after the House returns from its "vacation" September 21.

"The bill will definitely come out of conference and become law," he announced yesterday.

Senate Rider Would Delay All Pay Rises

Two Republican Senators yesterday filed a legislative rider which, if approved, would undoubtedly mean no pay raises for Federal and District workers for at least another year.

The move—sponsored by Senators Harry P. Cain (R., Wash.) and John J. Williams (R., Del.) took the form of an amendment to the four reclassification and pay raise bills pending before the Senate.

The rider says, in effect, that none of the pay boost bills shall take effect until the President declares the Federal budget will be in balance.

The Treasury Department on June 30 reported that the Government was facing a five-billion-dollar deficit.

The amendment would be attached to two pending reclassification bills, carrying an average increase of about $125 a year for Federal and District employes, the top executives pay bill and a pay raise measure covering over 400,000 postal workers.

Few Senators gave the balanced-budget proviso any chance of ultimate approval, though some suggested such "an economy grandstand play" might add a few hours' debating time to floor action on the pay bills.

The Williams-Cain amendment to the pay measures states: "This act shall take effect on the date which the President declares it is expected, on the basis of estimated revenues and expenditures, that revenues of the Federal Government for the fiscal year in which such proclamation is made will equal or exceed its expenditures for such fiscal year."

The Senate is still expected to act within the next few weeks on the House-passed, top-level pay bill, its reclassification bill and its postal measure providing a $100 annual increase.

Parzo, who owns a restaurant at 1203 Pennsylvania ave. nw., came home about 11:15 p. m. and noticed the apartment door had been jimmied. Inside he found a closet door had received the same treatment and the safe removed.

Police investigation found that a neighbor had seen two men carrying away what appeared to be the safe at about 10:50 p. m.

Italy Offers to Cast Bronze Statue Groups To Guard Entrances of Memorial Bridge

Government Cites Gratitude for U. S. Aid in Time of Need

The Italian government has offered to cast in bronze four groups of statues for the District entrances to Arlington Memorial Bridge, it was learned yesterday.

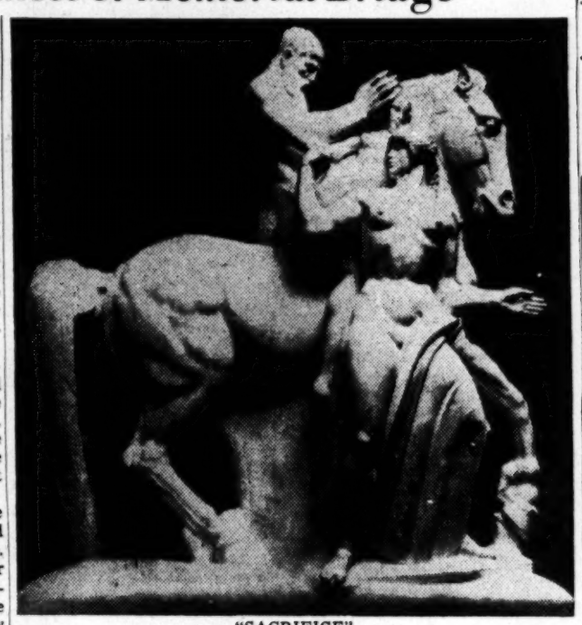
The offer was made to the Department of State as "an expression of good will and thanks for everything the United States has done for Italy, including the Friendship Train (sponsored by Drew Pearson)," First Secretary Gian Vincenzo Soro of the embassy said.

Signor Soro said his government would do the casting and furnish the metal if a favorable reply to the offer is received. Once the offer is accepted the details would be worked out. The actual casting would take about eight months, he said.

The statues to be cast were chosen in a competition authorized by Congress a score of years ago. The sculptors are James E. Fraser of Westport, Conn., former member of the Commission of Fine Arts, and Leo Friedlander of New York and White Plains, N. Y. The models were contracted for by the Federal Government in 1931, and were originally to have been executed in granite.

Congress made an appropriation for the statues, but the funds were impounded under the Economy Act of 1933. When the funds were released the cost of granite had increased so much that it was decided the statues would have to be executed in bronze. Then bronze was declared a critical war item.

Estimates received since the war were so high as to again preclude carrying out the project. The last estimate received was approximately $300,000 for casting the four groups, each weighing about 10 tons, according to the National Capital Park Service.



"SACRIFICE"

Back Taxes Of $77,449 Are Sought

Charles C. Coley, 1003 U st. nw., owner of a number of Washington restaurants, yesterday was named in a Federal income tax lien notice as owing $77,449.64 in back taxes.

The notice filed in District Court, listed $7,116.45 for 1943; $49,550.90 for 1944; $2357.90 for 1945 and $18,424.39 for 1946.

Coley was not available for comment.

Lien notices were filed also against the Palm Grove Club, Inc., 1601 14th st. nw., for $2582.56 in cabaret taxes, September, 1948, through February, 1949, and Homer E. Thomas, whose address was listed as Soldier's Home, for $157.20 1945-46 income tax.

Palm Grove Club officials could not be located last night. At Soldier's Home, it was said no Homer E. Thomas was registered there.

D. C. Woman, 33, Fatally Stabbed

Helen Copeland, also known as Helen Burgess, 33, was fatally stabbed in the chest shortly after 8 o'clock last night in a rooming house at 927 French st. nw., police reported. She was pronounced dead at the scene by a Freedmen's Hospital ambulance doctor. Police are seeking a 28-year-old male roomer at that address in connection with the knife killing.

$355,000 Seduction Suit Filed for Greenbelt Girl

A 38-year-old aviation inventor was sued for $355,000 in District Court yesterday on complaint, which he called "fantastic," of 20-year-old Baraba Diane Runnion that he "raped, seduced and debauched" her.

The defendant in the suit, Ralph L. Holcombe, told reporters he lives at 4207 Farragut st., Hyattsville, Md. He said he knew nothing about details of the suit, that he had just been served with papers.

Tells of Answering Ad

According to the suit, Miss Runnion answered a newspaper ad August 8 in which Holcombe sought applications of photogenic young women to receive flying instructions.

Miss Runnion says Holcombe told her he would teach her to fly in two hours and as a result she would gain publicity and numerous opportunities.

At this time, the suit relates, Miss Runnion was "chaste and of unimpeachable morals" and had never partaken of alcoholic beverages.

'Complete Nervous Collapse'

As a result, it is alleged, Miss Runnion may be pregnant, has had "a complete nervous collapse and illness" and has been "embarrassed and humiliated."

The suit describes Holcombe as the inventor of the "buzz bonnet," a device used in pilot training, and lists his address as in care of Aviation Activities, Inc., 903 15th st. nw.

Holcombe said he is not employed by the company, but has assigned certain invention rights to the firm.

3 Boys Take $393 From Safeway Store

Three teen-age youths snatched $393 from a cash register in a Safeway store at 1630 N. Capitol st. last night and escaped.

The manager, William Taylor, told police the boys, all Negroes, were about 15, 16 and 18. All wore sports shirts, he said. The boys fled north on N. Capitol st., and then west on R st.

PUC Is Asked To Reconsider Phone Ruling

An application for reconsideration of a decision approving the removal of telephones being used for illegal purposes was filed yesterday by Attorney John L. Ingoldsby, jr., with the District Public Utilities Commission.

Ingoldsby, attorney for Harry and Bertha Katz, two of 324 persons who faced loss of telephone service after a gambling investigation by the United States attorney's office, labeled the PUC decision erroneous.

He said the PUC "opinion erroneously concludes that a letter sent by a law enforcement officer to the telephone company . . . constitutes probable cause to believe its facilities are being used for unlawful purposes."

Ingoldsby declared the decision "makes no provision for notice or hearings to phone subscribers whose service is about to be terminated under certain conditions."

He explained that in his opinion the PUC review of phone company actions on cutting off service constituted "in fact no review at all" since the commission "has already decided that in all cases the mere receipt of a letter from a law enforcement agency stating his belief that the telephone facility is being used or will be used unlawfully is determinative."

The PUC took the request under advisement.

Montgomery County Fair

4-H Clubbers Show Way in Stock Tests

By Donald Olesen
Post Reporter

Two young 4-H Clubbers gave their elders some pointers yesterday at the Montgomery County Fair, the first in 21 years.

They were:

Jack Rutter, an 18-year-old farm boy of Poolesville, Md., who put his baby beef steer, Shorty, through his paces in the 4-H showmanship class to win it for the third consecutive year and collect a permanent trophy cup.

Harold Mullinix, 17, of Damascus, Md., whose shorthorn steer, Reds, was judged champion of the 4-H steers.

Harold won a shorthorn steer contributed by W. H. McCeney of Silver Spring. A student at Damascus High School, Harold said he would enter his prize in the 1950 Eastern National Livestock Show at Timonium, Md.

In yesterday's 4-H judging, he also took five firsts and five second ribbons in the swine exhibits. Harold said he had been raising hogs for years, steers since last year.

The other championship exhibitor, Jack Rutter, demonstrated his skillful handling of his steer in the ring. The permanent trophy he won was contributed by Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Hurt of Gaithersburg. Rutter was graduated last June from Poolesville High School and hopes to attend the University of Maryland in the fall.

The fair, which began Thursday and ends tonight, is the first county-wide fair since 1928. The fair grounds were cleared and most of the livestock barns built in a single day last June by the cooperative action of county residents.

Interior Dept., Recreation Unit Sign Agreement

Way Now Clear To Settle Details For the Operation Of Facilities Here

An agreement was signed yesterday providing for eventual operation by the District Recreation Board of Interior Department recreation facilities here.

The "basic agreement," clearing the way for detailed agreements on each facility, does not cover swimming pools.

Negotiations between Interior and the Recreation Board over swimming pool operation have been deadlocked since Interior rejected the board's latest proposal. This suggested that two of the six pools be operated on an interracial basis.

"Use by All People"

The general agreement provides that transferred facilities will "be open to use by all people irrespective of their race, creed, color or national origin."

Transfers in some cases will await the end of concessions now in effect under Interior agreements with Government Services, Inc.

Harry S. Wender, chairman of the Recreation Board, said staff experts yesterday began studying all information about concessioned facilities to determine how they best can be operated.

Leoffler's Role Studied

As to control of S. G. Leoffler over public golf courses here, Wender said, "It's my personal opinion that these courses should be run by the board, if possible."

He said this would require a congressional appropriation and compensation to Leoffler for equipment and money he invested in new courses.

"We're studying all possibilities, such as renewing his contract, considering other concessionaires, and so on. But for the time being Leoffler will have to be allowed to continue operations," he added.

Wife Tries Trigger

'Unloaded' Gun Wounds Mail Clerk

"I like this one better," said the wife, "it's smaller and the trigger pulls easier."

Her finger tensed on the trigger of the "unloaded" weapon, there was a stab of flame and explosion, and the husband slumped with a bullet wound through his head.

Victim of the accidental shooting was Francis K. Chaney, a U. S. Railway Mail Service clerk. He was in serious condition and still unconscious last night at Washington Sanitarium, Takoma Park.

Revolver Came in Mail

The shooting occurred at 9506 Saybrook ave., shortly before 11 a. m.

The morning mail had brought Chaney a new .38-caliber Colt Detective Special revolver from the Postoffice Department. Railway mail clerks are required to carry sidearms while on duty.

Chaney was sitting at a table in the living room with his wife, Mrs. Alice E. Chaney, 28. He unwrapped the newly arrived revolver and placed it on the table beside his old one, a .38-caliber Colt Police Postive revolver.

Both type revolvers are snub-nosed, but the Detective Special fires a larger cartridge. When Mrs. Chaney experimentally pulled the trigger of the older weapon and it discharged, the bullet entered her husband's forehead above the hairline, over the left eye, emerged and penetrated the ceiling, police said.

Mrs. Chaney told Silver Spring Detective Charles Pearson that her husband had "never before kept a loaded gun in the house" because of the couple's three young children.

Neighbors said the three children, Carl, 9; Patty, 7, and Billy, 2, were out of the house playing at the time of the shooting.

According to the police and neighbors, the Chaneys have lived at the Saybrook ave. address about five years. They said Chaney works on a Railway Mail Service truck serving small communities between Washington and Baltimore.

Gravel Strike Now Is Set For Monday

A deferred strike of union employes of the Smoot Sand & Gravel Co. is set for Monday, a union spokesman said last night after a reportedly fruitless negotiating session with company officials.

No new negotiating sessions are in prospect, it was said, and the employes have scheduled a final meeting Sunday morning to consider a company offer made last night which has previously been rejected.

The 175 employes, members of Local 77, International Union of Operating Engineers, and Local 639 of the Teamsters Union, both AFL, originally had called a strike for last Monday, but deferred it for a week in favor of continued negotiations. The unions are asking 25-cent-an-hour pay raise.

John H. Shields, speaking for the employes, said the company had reiterated an offer of a group insurance plan which he said would mean about a dollar a week raise. This offer was rejected once before by a membership vote.

Talks to End Strike Of Plasterers Collapse

A negotiations session to seek an end to the eight-day strike of A. F. L. plasterers here collapsed only a few minutes after it began yesterday.

Representatives of the Employing Plasterers Association charged that Local 96 of the Plasterers Union had broken a promise to place the subcontractors' peace offer before a meeting of the rank and file.

The employers have agreed to a union request for higher workmen's compensation payments and asked that the 500 strikers be given a chance to vote on resuming work pending further negotiations on the union demand for a 3-per-cent health fund.

No further talks were scheduled between the disputants. It was believed, however, that the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service would enter the dispute next week.

Pickpocket Gets $40 From Man at Market

A pickpocket lifted a billfold containing $40 from the hip pocket of Cyrus C. Jones, 55, of 1420 Ridge pl. se., last night in the River Terrace Market, 3439 Benning rd. ne. Jones told police the billfold also contained a pass to the Senate Office Building.

Child Day Care Centers Face Limitations

Use of the District's child day care centers will have to be limited to families who can pay about $6 a week per child if a House-approved appropriations bill becomes law, Acting Welfare Director Raymond F. Clapp said yesterday.

Two of the present six centers also will have to be closed, Clapp told the Board of Public Welfare in a report to the monthly meeting. The number of children cared for will have to be reduced from the present 260 to about 195, he said.

Some 40 employes in the day-center program have been working without pay since the beginning of the new fiscal year July 1 while waiting for the appropriation bill to be passed, the board revealed in voting "appreciation of the sacrifices being made by these loyal employes" and expressing its thanks.

The bill, now in the Senate, would appropriate $50,000 for the centers during the current fiscal year as half of the cost, with the other half to be derived from parents' fees, Clapp explained.

This represents a one-third cut in funds below the estimates submitted by the board and the District Commissioners.

The Welfare Board members re-elected officers for another year. They are Edgar Morris, chairman; Fred S. Kogod, vice chairman, and A. J. Driscoll, secretary.

Probe of Rosslyn Gas Rates Sought

A petition requesting the Virginia State Corporation Commission to investigate "unreasonable" retail gas rates charged by the Rosslyn Gas Co. in Arlington County was sent to Richmond yesterday by Arlington Commonwealth's Attorney Denman Rucker.

The county board asked Rucker to file the petition last July 16, after Board Chairman Basil De Lashmutt noted that a scheduled Federal Power Commission investigation of Washington area gas rates is concerned with wholesale rates only.

The county board charges in its petition that the history of operations of the Washington Gas Light Co. and its wholly owned subsidiary, the Rosslyn Co., "show conclusively that over the years Rosslyn . . . has been discriminated against by its own parent company."

Amortization costs on outmoded facilities account for a "large portion" of the wholesale rate charged to the Rosslyn firm by the Washington Gas Light Co., the petition states.

It cites as an example of discrimination the fact that the Alexandria Gas Co. was paying the Washington Gas Co. only 36.32 cents a cubic foot at a time when Rosslyn Gas was paying a wholesale rate of 42.5 cents a cubic foot to its Washington parent company.

"It is an incontrovertible fact," the petition continues, "that although the Washington company pays 33 cents per cubic foot for gas received by the Potomac company (another wholly owned subdiary of the Washington company at Dranesville, Va., the Rosslyn company is charged 51.7 cents for the same gas, delivered by the Potomac company only 16 miles from Dranesville."

Lead Poison Kills Second Area Baby

Lead poisoning apparently caused by chewing the paint off wood yesterday took its second child victim within the past two weeks in the Washington area.

Louise Pitman, 26-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Pitman, 4936 Ayers pl. se., died at Gallinger Hospital after being admitted Wednesday.

The child, her mother said, had been in the habit of peeling paint off the porch railing and putting it in her mouth. She also would chew at the wall plaster. Mrs. Pitman said she had put red pepper on the walls in an attempt to stop this habit.

Claudette Garver, 4-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claude L. Garver, 4503 Decatur st., Hyattsville, Md., died August 13 at Prince Georges General Hospital of lead poisoning. Her parents said the child had the habit of eating paint from the walls and furniture.

The infant habit of eating things of no nutritional value, one medical authority on the subject has stated, is principally caused by vitamin or other nutritional deficiencies.

Owner Claims Wandering Horse In Arlington

The stray horse that spent a pleasant day munching sunflowers in the backyard of Arlington Police Officer John Kadel's home Thursday has turned out to be Red Devil, champion Fairfax County jumper.

The handsome brown animal, which Kadel picked up on scout car duty Wednesday night in the 900 block of Patrick Henry dr., was once the property of Ballantrae Farm, in McLean, Va., the officer said.

The animal was claimed late Thursday night by its present owner, Gilbert Cameron of McLean, according to information obtained through Fairfax police.

$10,000 Suit Filed By Horse Owner In Racer's Death

The death of the racehorse Pharadine resulted yesterday in a $10,000 damage suit filed in District Court.

Bringing the suit is the horse owner, J. F. Fraser, 3612 Chesapeake st. nw. Named defendants are the Railway Express Agency, Inc., the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Co., and the Pennsylvania Railroad Co.

The suit, filed through Attorney Malcolm D. Miller, states that the animal became ill of "shipping fever" or pneumonia while enroute from Fairgo, Md., to Mount Washington, Md., on August 30. It is claimed that the trip was unnecessarily prolonged and the animal not properly cared for.

Wisconsin Ave. 'Bottleneck' Job Awarded

Elimination of the traffic "bottleneck" on Wisconsin ave. north of East-West hwy. in Bethesda was given a green light by the Maryland State Roads Commission yesterday.

In a special meeting at Baltimore, the commission awarded a contract for the project which has been delayed since March by problems of securing rights-of-way along the proposed route of improvement.

Basic cost of the work, under terms of the contract awarded to the Wilmoth Paving Co. here, will be $339,489. An additional 15 per cent for engineering fees and another $175,000 for buying rights-of-way will raise the cost to about $900,000.

Wisconsin Ave. Widening

The contract provides for the widening of Wisconsin ave. north of East-West hwy. to Glenbrook rd., a distance of .65 of a mile, and weidening of East-West hwy. from Wisconsin ave. eastward for a distance of 500 feet. Construction work will affect both sides of Wisconsin ave., but will be restricted to the north side of East-West hwy.

When the project is completed, Wisconsin ave. will be 70 feet wide along the improved route, with a six-foot strip separating north and south-bound lanes.

While actual highway construction costs wil be borne by the roads commission, Montgomery County will pay for installation of curbs, gutters, sidewalks and storm drains. The county also has agreed to pay half the cost of acquiring the right-of-way.

Saving Effected

A substantial saving was effected by the county early this year, when many property owners agreed to donate the right-of-way as a means of speeding work on the project. Of 57 parcels of land required, 44 were given outright to the county, highway officials said.

Condemnation proceedings have been instituted against the remaining property owners, who recently refused offers totaling $82,200 for their land. Seven hearings are slated in county courts next week.

The contractors hope to complete the east lane of Wisconsin ave. by the end of this year and believe it may be possible to start work on the west lane before 1950, barring further difficulty in obtaining rights-of-way.

Tests for All Ailments Advocated

One complete physical examination instead of several checkups for specific diseases was proposed yesterday by a District Health Department officer.

Dr. S. Ross Taggart, director of the Bureau of Venereal Disease, said he had been thinking for several years that instead of residents submitting to periodic examinations for tuberculosis, venereal disease, diabetes or heart ailments, "there should be a continuing, unified diagnostic screening for detection of the diseases."

To achieve this, Dr. Taggart recommended establishment of a committee to coordinate operations of private health groups with public agencies and arrange for complete check-ups at the Health Department's three health centers.

In addition, Dr. Taggart said, a shot of penicillin should be given to each person being examined as a cure for any person who may be harboring venereal disease. He pointed out most VD cases are difficult to follow up and the single shot would avoid spread of the disease if treatment is not completed.

PUC Okays Merger of 2 Utilities

Absorption of the Braddock Light & Power Co., Inc., by the parent firm, Potomac Electric Power Co., was approved yesterday by the District Public Utilities Commission.

The commission said Pepco showed need for additional capital with which to complete construction of additions to the Braddock plant in Alexandria. The facilities of the Braddock firm, which is wholly owned by Pepco, however, could not be bonded for additional Pepco security issues.

Approval of the merger, Pepco officials testified, will not permit this as well as result in operating economies by eliminating various intercorporate agreements and remitting interchange of personnels staffs.

Upon completion of the Alexandria plant, all output will be additional power, except for supplying of present Braddock customers. Braddock now supplies the Pentagon Building, about 2000 customers in Arlington County and furnishes some power to the Virginia Electric Power Co.

Virginian, 46, Held in Slaying Of D. C. Man

Woodstock, Va., Aug. 26 (Spl.).—A Shenandoah County farmhand will face a preliminary hearing here at 10 a. m. Monday on a charge of murder in the death of Thor A. K. Mattson, Washington, D. C., carpenter, Wednesday night.

Sheriff Oscar Sheetz said Loring Keller, 46, has been jailed without bond as a result of the fatal shooting following a fight between the two men during a drinking party in a house near Strasburg. The slaying, Sheetz said, apparently climaxed "several days of arguing."

Killed Instantly

Mattson, who lived at 1344 North Carolina ave. ne., was shot as he entered Keller's rented room in the home of Joseph Rosenberger, Mattson's father-in-law and employer of Keller, according to the sheriff.

He was killed instantly when struck in the chest by a 12-gauge shotgun charge as he tried to light a match in the darkened bedroom, Sheetz said.

The sheriff said Keller made no effort to flee and readily admitted the shooting to police.

A Native of Finland

He quoted Keller as saying he had been struck by Mattson and knocked to the ground during an argument earlier in the evening and that Mattson had threatened him when he entered the bedroom.

Sheriff Sheetz said he understood Mattson had been visiting his relatives for about a week before the fatal shooting. A native of Finland, Mattson had lived in Washington for about two years, according to members of his family.

Angry Parents Lash Fairfax School Board

By Richard L. Lyons
Post Reporter

Two angry delegations of Fairfax County citizens raked the county school board over the coals at a special meeting last night for suddenly shifting their children to different schools "like a chess game."

The group of about 50 persons had been aroused by two actions taken by the board at its August 16 meeting:

1—Transfer of eighth, ninth and tenth grade students in the Clifton-Centerville area from Fairfax High School to Herndon High School.

2—Transfer of elementary students in the Pender area from Fairfax Elementary School to Floris Elementary School.

The two groups were mixed in together at the hearing and with most everyone speaking at once they vigorously opposed both moves at a two-hour session held at the school board office in Fairfax.

The board took no action but agreed to meet again with the two groups at 8 p. m. Monday at the Centerville School to furnish the facts and figures which prompted its action.

School officials explained the changes were made necessary by overcrowding at Fairfax. Superintendent W. T. Woodson said that though the county is expanding in population at a very rapid rate it has no money for building new schools.

Enrollments this year are expected to jump to 15,000, an increase of 2000 over last year.

Herndon High School is not crowded, Woodson said, and though much smaller, its academic standing is just as high as that at Fairfax.

Some of those present opposed the action because it had been taken without their knowledge just before the opening of school. Others had more personal reasons, like women who said they had worked on drives to build up the Fairfax High School cafeteria.

One Centerville woman observed that her boy had already started football practice at Fairfax and that the change would put him on the opposition team. William Scott of Pender complained that children who had developed friendships over the years in their school will be "upset" by the change.

"It sounds like you're playing a game of chess," Scott said.

After the meeting, Mrs. Audrey Neibert, president of the Centerville P-TA, said she intends to circulate a petition calling for action to give the county an elected school board.

Falls Church To Abandon Fairfax Sewer

The Falls Church City Council last night resolved to abandon Fairfax County facilities and either build its own sewerage system or to arrange with Arlington County for permission to pump sewage into the latter's system.

This action was taken following a report from J. R. Williams of the engineering firm of Johnson & Williams, Washington, which discounted the feasibility of continuing to use the Fairfax system at greatly increased rates.

A sewerage system expansion program to be voted on by residents of Fairfax's Sanitary District No. 1, August 30, would raise the rates charged Falls Church from $2 a connection currently charged, to $24.

Not only would the charges be increased, the city council members pointed out, but declared that under the present arrangement Fairfax would not be able to handle Falls Church sewage in the event the city's population increased.

The city, which now numbers 7000 residents, expects a population of 50,000 by 1980.

The present sewerage trunk line, used by both the city and county, it was said, was built by the Federal Government during the war under emergency conditions and may have to be replaced at any time.

In addition, if annexation plans of Falls Church go through sewage disposal costs would be increased through the necessity of purchasing sewerage units already installed in the territory under consideration for annexation.

Williams told the council that the city could be divided into "treatment districts" so that the basic elements of a sewerage system could be installed and other elements added later. He said a complete system for 50,000 population could be built for $700,000 to one million dollars. Under the new Fairfax expansion plan, the city would be paying the county $28,000 yearly or a total of about $840,000 by 1980, it was said.

War Veteran Found Dead In Garage

The man, Joseph Shurden, of 4018 Georgia ave. nw., was found by a neighbor, John Crouch, of 4403 Iowa ave. nw., in a garage in the rear of the 4400 block of Georgia ave. nw., which they shared.

The car's motor was running, police said, and both the car door and the door of the garage wer open.

Police said Shurden told his wife, Elizabeth, earlier in the day that he was "going on a long, long walk—the kind of a walk from which you don't return." He had made similar remarks, always in a jesting manner, before, they said she told them.

Dr. Christopher J. Murphy, deputy coroner, is investigating the case and said he would perform an autopsy this morning. A certificate of death will not be issued until after the autopsy, he said.

It was learned that Shurden had been undergoing treatment for a tubercular condition for the past two years. He had been hospitalized for periods in Asheville, N. C., and Martinsburg, W. Va., and was awaiting a hospital vacancy to return for further care.

Shurden, a Navy torpedoman during the war, was a native of Ohio. He had formerly been employed by the Capital Transit Co. as an operator, but had not worked for the past two years, neighbors said.

City Manager Ill, Pancoast To Take Over

The Alexandria City Council in a special meeting last night appointed City Attorney Joseph M. Pancoast as temporary city manager.

The acting city manager, Robert S. Marshall, jr., is ill in a Virginia Beach hospital following a convulsion suffered Wednesday night. His condition was given as "good" last night by a hospital spokesman.

Marshall, who is also executive director of the Alexandria Redevelopment and Housing Authority, was named acting city manager last March following the ouster of Nicholas A. Colasanto. W. Guy Ancell, Portsmouth, Va., city manager who recently aaccepted appointment to the Alexandria post, will not assume his duties until September 15.

Pancoast's appointment will remain in effect until Marshall is able to return to his office or until September 15 when the new appointee takes over.

Last night's action maks the second time in two years that Pancoast has been called upon for emergency duty as city manager. In August, 1947, he was appointed to fill temporarily the vacancy caused by the resignation of Carl L. Budwesky. He held the post then until Colasanto was named the following November.

Pancoast, who has been city attorney since 1943, will leave that post September 1 when his present term expires. He was not a candidate for reelection.

His appointment was praised by Councilman Marshall J. Beverley. Beverley said:

"No one could have been selected who would be more capable of filling the duties of city manager or who knows more about the functioning of the city government."

Wheatley Gets Prince Georges Counsel Post

State's Attorney A. Gwynn Bowie of Prince Georges County yesterday announced that H. Winship Wheatley, jr., former State's attorney, has been appointed assistant counsel for the State for the October term of the Circuit Court.

Wheatley was named by the Circuit Court judge on the recommendation of Bowie, who has been told by his doctors that he should not try the October term cases because of a heart condition. He suffered an attack last May 29.

Bowie will continue to run the State's attorney's office and handle grand jury cases, and the special appointment will not affect the duties of Assistant State's Attorney Hervey Machen, it was emphasized.

Wheatley, who was elected State's attorney in 1938, served from January, 1939, until July, 1941, when he entered Navy service as a junior grade lieutenant. Bowie was appointed to take his place, and was elected when Wheatley's term expired while he was still in the service. He has been practicing law since he left the Navy as a commander after seeing action in five major invasions.

Toombs Stabbing Case Hearing Is Postponed

A preliminary hearing on a stabbing charge against Joseph R. Thomas, 35, an engineer with the District Board of Education, was postponed by St. Mary's County (Md.) authorities yesterday pending recovery of the victim.

State's Attorney John Briscoe said that Thomas is out of the county jail at Leonardtown on $2000 bail. He is charged with stabbing Alfred Toombs, former Washington newspaperman, near Coltons Point Sunday night.

Toombs is in satisfactory condition in Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore with a knife wound in his chest, it was reported.

Party at Afghan Embassy Honors Mr., Mrs. McGhee

By Marie McNair

THE SMALL and informal party at the Afghanistan Embassy yesterday afternoon, was given by the Charge d' Affaires of Afghanistan, Mohammed Chouaib, for George McGhee, new Assistant Secretary of State in charge of Near Eastern and Asian affairs, and Mrs. McGhee.

All members of the embassy staff were on hand making themselves agreeable, and chatting with the Second Secretary, Rahman Pajvak, I learned that the Afghanistan Ambassador, His Royal Highness Sardar Mohammad Naim, and Princess Naim, are expected back from Afghanistan perhaps within the fortnight.

Mr. McGhee and Mme. Pandit in a periwinkle blue sari talked at length, and Mrs. McGhee watching the Ambassadress from India, was struck with the resemblance to Mr. McGhee's mother who lives in Texas.

I met for the first time the Counselor of the Legation of Trans-Jordan, which now is called the Mashmite Jordan Kingdom. Mr. Abdel Monem Refei, who's been here little more than three months, has established the temporary legation at Hotel 2400, and has several houses under consideration for a legation.

Mrs. McGhee, who is tall and very pretty, wore a natural colored shantung frock yesterday with a draped front panel and tufted appliques about the oval neckline. Her hat was of the same color, turned up all around with straw scrolls edging the brim.

Stopped for pleasant words with B. R. Sen, the Indian Minister, who is off today with Mme. Sen and their daughter, Miss Nandini Sen, for a motor trip and their first visit to Niagara Falls. The Ambassador of Thailand, His Royal Highness Prince Wan, was there with Princess Wan, and coming in after the sun was down were the Portuguese Ambassador, Pedro Theotonio Pereira, the Lebanese Minister and Mme. Malik, and the Ambassador of Burma and Mme. So Nyun.

The Korean Ambassador, Dr. John Myun Chang, was there and others were the Ambassador of Saudi Arabia, Sheikh Asad Al-Faqih, the Charge d'Affaires of Iraq, and Mme. Bakr, Miss Rita Pandit, who accompanied her mother; the Counselor of the Pakistan Embassy, M. O. A. Baig, and the Charge d'Affaires of Turkey, Nizamettin Erenel.

Mr. McGhee's colleagues from the State Department who were there were Raymond Hare and Mrs. Hare, Elbert Matthews and Mrs. Matthews and Mr. and Mrs. Parks.

Others were Col. and Mrs. Richard Harris, Judge George Neilson, and Mrs. Neilson, whose black frock was topped with a frothy pink hat; the Australian Ambassador and Mrs. Norman O. Makin and Senator and Mrs. Karl Mundt.

Dr., Mrs. Verges Hosts At Garden Reception

Among the guests were Senora de Dillon, wife of the Ecuador Ambassador; Dr. Alfonso Moscoso, Mrs. John R. Steelman, Senator and Mrs. Dennis Chavez, Representative and Mrs. Eugene Cox, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Dawson, Mr. Nathan Hurwitz, Comdr. and Mrs. Gardiner Luce, Dr. Mica Trbojevic, Senor and Senora de Corominas, Paul Murphy, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Vennell, Mr. and Mrs. Leigh Brite and Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Jeselohn.

Prepare for World Responsibility, Teenagers Urged

Girls' Citizenship Role Stressed

By Genevieve Reynolds

NINETY-SIX delegates to Girls Nation yesterday were called upon to prepare themselves for citizenship responsibility in a changing world.

Secretary of the Navy Francis P. Matthews issued the challenge when he addressed the group at an afternoon session held at American University. Undersecretary of State James E. Webb likewise emphasized the need for intelligent and idealistic women to assume active, responsible citizenship roles when he met with the delegates at a morning session in the new State Department auditorium.

"The future of the United Nations is of crucial importance to creating the kind of world you want to live in," Undersecretary of State Webb told the youthful leaders, who have gathered here from 47 States and the Panama Canal Zone to attend Girls Nation, sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary.

Declaring that the girls could play a great and important role in world peace, Webb said, "Next October 24 is 'United Nations Day.' When you go back home I hope you will work among your school groups and your other associates and see that 'United Nations Day' is celebrated in your home town in a way that will open the eyes of all your fellow townsmen to the great work the U. N. is doing. With your help and support, even greater work can be accomplished."

Webb outlined the U.N.'s assistance to war-shattered countries of western Europe through the Marshall Plan.

He said that the United States in the Rio Pact and the North Atlantic Pact has entered collective defense arrangements with other like-minded nations to preserve world peace by making it too dangerous for any aggressive nation to dare to start a war.

Changing Conditions

Due to changing economic and political conditions in other parts of the world plus the threat of communism it is necessary for young women to prepare themselves for better and greater citizenship responsibility, according to the Secretary of the Navy.

Terming the U. S. Navy the greatest in the world, Secretary Matthews pointed out that men in the Navy are making tremendous financial sacrifices, prompted by patriotism, to remain in the service.

Before leaving he asked to be introduced to the Girls Nations' newly elected Secretary of the Navy, Ellen Horn of Alton, Ill. The two secretaries then greeted the assembly.

As a parting shot, Secretary Matthews told the girls: "Be partial to whatever service you like, but have a heart for the Navy."

Visit Voice of America

Before the delegates heard Secretary Webb they visited the Voice of America offices in the Department of the Interior. Mary Hittle of Wichita, Kans.; Jo Alice Moody of Perry, Ga., and Barbara Weimer of Green River, Wyo., made a recording to be beamed to Europe.

During an afternoon forum delegates expressed opinions of what they had learned most during the seven-day Girls Nation program. Consensus of the group was that learning to follow was one of the most important lessons learned.

"We are all leaders back in our homes and in Girls States," declared Rosemary Rood of California. "It's difficult to follow when you are accustomed to lead. But one is just as important as the other."

A majority of the girls agreed that meeting and learning government with delegates from all sections of the country had impressed them more than anything except meeting President Truman.

Mrs. Lawrence H. Smith, past national president of the American Legion Auxiliary, will be the principal speaker at the final Girls Nation assembly, 9 a. m. today, following a brief business session.

Ask Anne

In our home we are planning a stag party for 12 for a fellow employe who is to be married soon. There will be drinks and refreshment served. I would like to know what my position would be as wife of the host? Also, your suggestions for entertainment and refreshment. We are planning on showing films. E. M. B.

The role of a woman at a stag party was amusingly described by John P. Marquand in his book, "Point of No Return." He says that modern stag parties are a throw back to primitive days when the men in the tribe got together to talk. At such a time, women "don't dare to show their faces before the men's council . . . and they eat in the women's hut."

However, in enlightened 1949, I think you could at least greet the guests with your husband, if you wish, before you retire to "the women's hut—the kitchen—to ready the refreshments.

For the refreshments, you could arrange a Dutch-type lunch. Lay out on the dining room table a variety of cheese, spicy cold cuts, crackers, rye bread, potato chips, etc. If you wish, you could top this off with a large plate of homemade cookies or a cake. Add to this a hot or cold beverage and you will have a "snack" most men would really go for, and one that will require little serving on your part.

In addition to the movies you could have equipment ready for several card games such as bridge or poker for those who may wish to play. Some may just wish to sit around and talk, visit or kibitz.

I am a resident of nearby Virginia and have a big problem with hard water. Is there some laboratory to which I can send a sample for its chemical analysis? And is there any nearby concern which installs water softeners? A. McM.

You may send a sample of the water to the Office of the Virginia State Experiment Station, Blacksburg, Va., for chemical analysis.

To find a firm which installs water softeners, I suggest you look in the yellow pages of the telephone book under "Water Treating Equipment and Supplies."

Inquiries and contributions for Ask Anne column must be in written form. We regret that time does not permit handling them by telephone. Address questions to Anne, Room 408, The Washington Post, Washington 4, D. C.

Couch Blaze Kills Retired U. S. Worker

DAN SULLIVAN

A 55-year-old former Government employe was killed yesterday in a fire in his fourth-floor apartment at 1900 H st. nw.

The victim, Carl L. Euren, was found lying on a blazing couch in his living room. Police said there were cigarettes lying around and that he may have fallen asleep while smoking.

The blaze was confined to the couch and put out before District firemen arrived by a visting New York fireman who was attracted by smoke as he was passing the apartment house.

The fireman, Dan Sullivan, 34, and a friend, Julius Giacalone, 35, said they rushed upstairs, grabbed three fire extinguishers and trained them on the couch.

Sullivan, who is visiting friends here at 1916 H st. nw., said he found Euren lying unconscious and partly clothed amidst the flames. He said he had to pull out the mattress from under the dead man to get at the fire.

Dr. Carl Claudy, Rescue Squad physician, prononunced Euren dead at 2:05 p. m. Police said Euren had retired two years ago.

Friends later told reporters Euren was a World War I hero and had been gassed and crippled in the Meuse-Argonne offensive. His wife, who is employed, was not home when the fire broke out.

The District coroner's office said Euren apparently died of suffocation, but because of a cut found on the side of his head, an autopsy will be performed.

The coal miners' health and welfare fund is spending itself out of existence, Ezra Van Horn, trustee for the mine operators, charged yesterday.

The fund, as set up and operated by the majority of trustees—John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, and Senator Style Bridges (R., N. H.)—is actuarially unsound and will fall of its own weight unless a "substantial change" is made in its management, Van Horn told a Senate subcommittee.

Van Horn estimated that all but 23 million dollars of 150 million dollars already has been spent.

Although management is supposed to have a share in operating the fund, Van Horn asserted, for all practical purposes Lewis and Bridges did as they wished "with a total disregard" of Van Horn's views.

The fund is built up by a 20-cent-a-ton levy on coal produced.

There have been charges made earlier by Van Horn that the fund was spending money at a faster rate than the coal royalty was coming in. Union officials have defended the operation of the fund, insisting that after the backlog of sick and elderly miners is caught up with, the expenditures will even out with the income.

There have also been reports Lewis plans to demand an increase in the royalty payment.

Among the faults in operation of the fund listed by Van Horn are the following:

Payment is based on membership in the union, without regard to their employment by a fund-contributing mine operator.

The fund makes the employes the "absolute servants" of the union.

The fund subjects the industry and public to double taxation for welfare and social obligations, already collected through taxes.

It sets up the union as a "super-government" to handle welfare and social problems of workers.

Van Horn receives $35,000 a year as trustee of the fund. So does Senator Bridges. Lewis does not draw his salary.

Food Prices Drop Nearly 1% in Month

Retail food prices in Washington dropped nearly one per cent between June 15 and July 15, the Bureau of Labor Statistics reported yesterday. It was the first such decline in Washington since February.

The index stood at 200.4 on July 15, almost exactly double the base figure of 100 for the prewar years of 1935-39. The decline since last July amounts to 6.8 per cent, but the local food bill is estimated to be 37.7 per cent higher than in June, 1946, when OPA ended.

Reasons for the local decline were drops in pork chops, veal cutlets, green beans, onions, potatoes and a few other items. Oranges and lettuce, however, were up over the previous month.

Air Guard Ends Training With Review

New Castle County Air Force Base, Del., Aug. 26.—The D. C. Air National Guard together with sister units from Delaware and Virginia closed their annual field training period today with a Governor's Day review.

On hand for the all-day ground and air inspection were Gov. William M. Tuck of Virginia, Gov. Elbert N. Carvel of Delaware, Brig. Gen. William H. Abendroth, commanding general of the D. C. Guard, and Maj. Gen. George C. Finch, head of the air division of the National Guard Bureau.

Forty-eight fighters, the bulk of the 113th Fighter Group under the command of Col. Laidler B. Mackall of Washington, paraded in the air. Squadrons taking part were the 121st of Washington, the 142d of Delaware and the 149th of Virginia.

Colonel Mackall commented during the review that in his opinion the 113th Group was "100 per cent more ready for combat than the group I went into combat with just a few years ago." Colonel Mackall was a Pacific bomber pilot during the war.

All the visiting brass, both civilian and military, were highly pleased with the condition of the units.

General Abendroth, taking his first look at his air arm, said the fact that units from three States worked together so smoothly, disproved the allegation that State lines were drawn across the National Guard.

Saturday morning the 600 Washington Guardsmen here will trek back to Andrews Air Force Base by plane, bus and private auto. A mass payday will be held at Andrews base at 3 p. m.

Hypodermic Ends Quarrel; Doctor Dead, Wife Ill

Peekskill, N. Y., Aug. 26 (AP).—A Bronx doctor was dead today and his wife in critical condition after he plunged a morphine-laden hypodermic needle into himself and his wife during a quarrel, authorities said.

Her husband, Dr. Samuel Einterz, 60, died of poisoning in Peekskill hospital shortly after their son found them unconscious in bed at their summer cottage.

Court to Rule On AMVET Title Right

District Court was petitioned yesterday to determine which of two veterans groups possesses the exclusive right to use the title AMVETS.

Presently using the designation, according to the suit, are the American Veterans of World War II, Inc., located at 1142 18th st., nw., and American Veterans of World War II, at 724 9th st. nw.

The suit was brought by three members of the 18th st. group. They are Andrew Kenny, 705 18th st. nw., Bernard Spalding, 310 15th st. se., and Worthington M. Remson, 2512 17th st. n.w.

Kenny told a reporter that there is a "tenuous affiliation" between the two groups and that no schism is indicated. He said that it was desirable to have a court decree showing that the American Veterans of World War II, Inc., termed the Washington Corporation in the suit, originated the designation "Amvets" here in 1944. He said that the other group, termed the National Corporation, assumed the "Amvets" in 1947 when it was chartered by act of Congress.

Sicilian Bandits Kill 2 More Carabinieri

Rome, Aug. 26 (AP).—Italian Army commanders and police today made plans for wiping out Sicily's notorious outlaw gang led by the bandit king, Salvatore Giuliano.

Deaths of two more national policemen (Carabinieri) as a result of a new bandit attack last night made a total of nine officers who have lost their lives in less than a week in the rugged Sicilian hills.

Cost of Color Converter for TV Put at $75

By The Associated Press

President Frank Stanton of Columbia Broadcasting System yesterday estimated that the cost of a color converter for a black-and-white television set would be $75 "on a mass production basis."

The estimate was contained in a letter to Federal Communications Commissioner Robert F. Jones in connection with the current controversy over how near, or how far off, color television for the general public may be.

Dr. Stanton, in releasing the letter outlining the CBS position on color broadcasting, also gave out copies of a letter to Chairman Johnson (D., Colo.) of the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee. In the latter communication he expressed belief that Johnson had "not been adequately informed" in suggesting earlier this week that some sections of the radio industry had lost interest in pushing the color deevlopment.

The letter to Jones asserted that while the estimated cost of a converter is $75 in mass production, the cost of hand-made models for use at this time is many times that figure. He said it is not possible to obtain converters in the quantities suggested by FCC to carry out broadscale tests before the commission opens its television hearings here September 26.

The Lyon's Den

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK.—Vincent Sheean, now summering at his Vermont home, still feels the influence of Gandhi—an influence which will grow stronger through the years. And he has just decided to establish a number of Gandhi scholarships, for untouchables who will be brought from India and educated in American schools . . . Sheean has written a pamphlet outlining his plan, and sent copies to a number of his friends requesting no money but only their ideas for organizing his scholarship program.

When the members of the executive council of the AFL convened in Canada, Matthew Woll noticed that David Dubinsky was hatless. Max Zaritsky, president of the Hatters Union, will be angry at you, David," Woll warned him . . . "You should wear a hat" . . . "Max isn't wearing a skirt," replied the head of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union, "so why should I wear a hat?"

J. R. Cominsky, executive vice president of the Saturday Review of Literature, sat at home listening to the broadcast of the Dodger-Cardinal night game. In the ninth inning he received a telephone call from Tokyo. The caller was Norman Cousins, editor of the magazine, who had flown to Japan to attend the dedication of a peace monument in Hiroshima . . . "What's the score?" Cousins asked him. Cominsky brought the radio close to the telephone, and Cousins, in Tokyo, heard Red Barber broadcast the final inning.

Before the main bout between Ray Robinson and Steve Belloise at Yankee Stadium, Eddie Walker, Belloise's manager, stood near the Yankee dugout, staring at the ring. Robinson's manager, George Gainford, stood with his back to the ring and scanned the grandstand, counting the house. Gainford was asked why he looked at the grandstand instead of the ring, and said: "God's already decided what's goin' to happen in the ring. But there's been no decision on receipts" . . . "You're wrong," said Walker. "We can't do anything about the gate but a manager maybe can help God with the decision in the ring."

Police officers who've seen Sidney Kingsley's hit, "Detective Story," criticize the third-act climax, in which a prisoner in a station house wagon grabs a policeman's revolver and starts shooting. "A cop doesn't carry a gun when prisoners are around in the station house," they advised the playwright . . . Yesterday the papers reported that Frank Davis, a robber being questioned in the Classon Avenue Police Station, grabbed a patrolman's revolver and shot his way out, wounding three policemen before he was recaptured. Kingsley showed the clipping to a police official who had criticized the play, and said, "Look, they've stolen my third-act curtain."

Roosevelt Gets Marriage License

New York, Aug. 26 (U.P.).—Representative Franklin D. Roosevelt, jr., and Suzanne Perrin, 28-year-old New York socialite, took out a marriage license at the Municipal Building today.

Roosevelt, 35, son of the late President, and his fiancee gave no indication of their wedding plans. It will be Roosevelt's second marriage. His first, to Ethel duPont, ended in a Nevada divorce May 21.

DRESS YOUR DOG DURING DOG-DAYS
HOLD A STYLE SHOW
LET THE COSTUME FIT THE CHARACTER OF YOUR PET—
DESIGN AND MAKE THE CLOTHES
8-27
HERB. SWEET.

During the hot sultry days of late summer, often called dog days, when you want a quiet activity for you and your dog, think up ways of dressing your pet. If you have a quiet dog who likes to be handled, there are many ways to costume him. If you have a neighborhood group who enjoys playing together, you might even hold a style show.

When designing your play clothes, let them fit the character of your dog. A funny bouncy little dog could be dressed as a clown, and you could make his suit. For you who do not like to sew, perhaps Mother still has some of your baby clothes that would do. Little dogs will often fit into doll clothes. Hats may be shaped from paper cups or napkins. Old discarded hats decorated with bows and frills are fun too.

Remember that your dog will tire of this activity more quickly than you do, so let him go away to run every 15 or 20 minutes.

Hoops With Bells

Did you ever play with a hoop when you were young? One doesn't see too many today. Some how or other they seem to have become old-fashioned. But it's a pretty sure thing that even modern young children will get a lot of fun out of hoop play.

The Association for Childhood Education in Washington in Washington tells how to make a very attractive hoop in one of their recently revised bulletins.

Get a wooden hoop from a large sugar or flour barrell. File down the nails and sandpaper the hoop until it is smooth. Paint the outside red, divide the inside into sections and paint them alternately with red, white and blue. You can work out other color combinations, too. Get some small metal bells and fasten them inside the hoop with metal staples.

A stick about 20 inches long, also painted and with a bell fastened to its outer end, completes an attractive and funful piece of play equipment that is both lively and musical.

BARNABY

"Cast Your Bread Upon The Waters"

He used to be a radio announcer for an Arlington station. Currently, he's working in the District, but in those days he was pretty well known in Arlington County as a friend of the police.

He was always plugging the idea that the cop on the corner is your friend, and a big brother to all the kids in the neighborhood.

When Officer John Doe was thrown from his motorcycle and injured, our radio announcer went all out to raise a fund for the policeman's family. Doe recovered, and expressed his thanks. Even invited the announcer out for dinner. It was very touching.

That was two years ago. Recently, the announcer drove through a stop sign at an isolated intersection without actually coming to a dead stop. He got a ticket.

He took it to a friend in the Commonwealth Attorney's office and explained the details. "Forget it," said his pal. "I'll take care of everything."

But apparently he didn't, because the other middle of the night the announcer was routed out of bed and hustled off to the jug by two cops armed with a warrant.

But when they got to the station, things looked better. Who was in charge of the joint but our old friend, Officer Doe!

There was a friendly greeting, and then Doe said: "Just pay us $13.75 for your fine and you can be on your way."

But the announcer had only $8 and some change in his pocket. So—would they accept a check? Officer Doe shook his head. Would Officer Doe cash a check for the $5 difference, so that the fine could be paid in cash? Officer Doe shook his head again.

Would Officer Doe lend his benefactor $5? Again the answer was no. Could the announcer use the phone? No. Would Doe call the announcer's friend and ask him to bring $5 to the station? No, but the jailer would call, later.

"But they insisted that I'd have to do my waiting in jail," concludes the announcer. "So they searched me, removed my belt to make sure I wouldn't hang myself in that stinking steel cage, and then let me wait there for two hours until the jailer got around to contacting my friend."

The moral? I'm blamed if I know. Maybe the moral is that one shouldn't try to get tickets fixed . . . or maybe it's that one shouldn't accept favors unless he's prepared to repay them.

On the other hand, the moral may be simply this: If a policeman had enough money to lend all his friends collateral cash, he wouldn't have to be a policeman.

GIVE-AWAYS

"Five kittens, not very fancy but good mousers, want a home in the country." (Wisconsin 8322).

"Mother cat and four kittens, two male and two female. We're leaving town." (Twining 2235).

"Two very cute male kittens." (Chestnut 3360).

"Six cute puppies, 6 weeks old; will be fairly large dogs, suitable for suburban homes." (Lockwood 5-0070 after 1 p. m. Sunday).

"Two black-and-white female puppies, 3 months old; part wire-haired, part fox terrier." (Taylor 8231).

"We're moving from our home near Annapolis, and must part with a Maine cat and three beautifully marked kittens. Combine a beautiful weekend drive with an opportunity to acquire a delightful pet." (Bay Vista 3201, through Annapolis).

THE AMERICAN WAY

The art of politics would appear to consist of the ability to:

1. In the morning refer to the White House as a "jail" and call the Presidency "this terrible job which I have," and

2. In the afternoon announce that you may run for a third term, and

3. Fail to see anything inconsistent in the two.

NEXT?

"Many Government offices," writes Andy F. Kisacky of 4802 Suitland rd. se., "circulate lists of business firms that offer discounts on various types of merchandise.

"Do you suppose that when the investigating committee is finished with the 5 per centers they'll start questioning the 20 per centers?"

BOB SOUNDS A BIT CRITICAL

"When there's a ball game in Washington, I turn on my television set and tune to WTTG. So far, my car has weathered the games much better than the Nats have."

SUGGESTION BOX

Bill Houston of 4015 71st ave., Landover Hills, Md., suggests:

"The National Geographic Society ought to send out an expedition to see if it can find a Washington street that is not torn up."

LOST: ONE VOTE

Ordinarily, a Congressman tries to oblige constituents who write in for Government pamphlets, seeds and such. But there are times when the patience of our lawgivers is sorely tried.

Edith Woodruff, secretary to California's Carl Hinshaw, tells me that her boss recently got a postcard bearing the simple request:

"Please send me all available information about the United States."

Freshmen Lift Senate Stature

By Robert S. Allen

One distinguished freshman is a notable event in the chamber. The current body is unique in that it has four rookies of this caliber as well as a number of others above average.

Douglas

Also remarkable is the fact that the group made its appearance in a session of otherwise little note. But through their quality and breadth they have already markedly elevated the tone and stature of the Senate's legislative deliberations.

Paul H. Douglas (D., Ill.) former professor of economics, battle-decorated Marine veteran, and indomitable liberal whom Senator Ed Johnson, three-term Coloradan, rates the "rookie of the year." Douglas won his seat against apparent heavy odds, and has displayed the same fighting qualities and independence in the Senate. His debate against the strongly supported bill to circumvent the Supreme Court's rejection of the basing-point price system was the most impressive of the session.

Estes Kefauver (D., Tenn.) who also won in a seemingly hopeless race and has been uncompromising in making good his campaign promises. Kefauver is the only Southern freshman who has gone 100 per cent down the line for the Fair Deal program, including civil rights. Kefauver is a good winter-book bet for a place on the 1952 Democratic presidential ticket.

Hubert H. Humphrey (D., Minn.) former college professor, Mayor of Minneapolis, and militant New Dealer, who battles for the things he believes in as resolutely as he talks fluently about them. He is outstandingly the most eloquent champion in Congress of Agriculture Secretary Brannan's farm-price-support plan. The fact that the proposal has been cold-shouldered has only intensified Humphrey's fervor.

Frank Porter Graham (D., N. C.) eminent former president of the University of North Carolina and an equally eminent Senator. He has made an outstanding mark as a statesman of high stature, character and integrity. Striking evidence of this is that some of Graham's warmest admirers are Old Guard colleagues whom he has staunchly opposed on issues.

Other notable freshmen are:

Mrs. Margaret Chase Smith (R., Me.) who won against three powerful, masculine opponents and has repeatedly broken with her Republican colleagues on major measures. She voted for the Administration's public housing, aid to education, and civil rights bills.

Clinton P. Anderson (D., N. M.) former Secretary of Agriculture and one of the smartest strategists in the Democratic Party. He has ably backed every phase of the Fair Deal program with the exception of the Brannan plan.

Robert S. Kerr, Oklahoma former Governor and millionaire oilman, whose liberal record is distinctive on public power, labor, housing, education, social security, and farm legislation. His big deviation has been on the bill he is aggressively pushing to strip the Federal Power Commission of control over a major segment of the natural gas industry and open the way for a 75-million-dollar hike in consumer rates.

Robert C. Hendrickson, New Jersey Republican and Army veteran who has done yeoman service in fighting for civil rights and to liberalize the "anti-Semitic and Anti-Catholic" displaced persons law.

Russell B. Long, 31-year-old "baby" of the Senate, who fought shoulder to shoulder with Douglas against the basing-point restoration bill. He faces a tough reelection fight next year and is treading a wary course on issues that affect Louisiana, particularly oil and civil rights.

J. Allen Frear, Delaware war veteran, who has an excellent liberal voting record except on public power. Elected with strong labor backing, Frear has gone down the line on labor measures.

Lyndon B. Johnson, ingratiating, lanky Texan, who gave up a seat in the House to serve in the Navy, is able, hard working and a skilled legislator. His previous liberal record has been dimmed somewhat by deviations on civil rights, labor and oil legislation. Johnson is working closely with Kerr to put over the natural gas "ripper" bill.

Lester C. Hunt, former Wyoming Governor and dentist, who has backed the President on everything except his national health insurance program.
